1½-POUND BABY GIRL FIGHTING TO SURVIVE

HAMILTON (CP)—Doctors and nurses at the Mount Hamilton Hospital are fighting to save one of the smallest babies ever to be born here and live.

The little girl, named Camila by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Inure Almasi, weighed only one pound, eight ounces when she was born Sept. 18. Today, she weighs five ounces less (babies always lose weight after birth), and her condition is described as "fair."

WIRE BRIEFS

Wheat Crop Estimate

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's 1960 wheat crop was estimated at 490,532,000 bushels by the bureau of statistics today, an upward revision of 18,000,000 bushels from last month's forecast due to improved prospects on the prairies. The prairie wheat crop was estimated at 471,000,000 bushels.

Gables Expecting

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Actor Clark Gable announced today that he will become a father for the first time. The 59-year-old "king of the movies" and his fifth wife, the former Kay Spreckles, said they expect the baby next spring.

Safe Theft Charge

EDMONTON (CP) — Four men were arrested and charged by RCMP today in connection with the theft of a safe containing $57,000 from the provincial Legislative Building. Police said they were still looking for the safe and its contents.

LONDON (UPI) — Communist nations have set up a high court of inquiry to examine the conflict between the Soviet Union and Communist China, Iron Curtain sources disclosed today.

The sources said its findings may either mend or break completely the ideological split between Peking and the rest of the Communist world.

TOP MAN

The Moscow representative is no less than chief theoretician Mikhail Suslov, a member of the Soviet Communist Party Presidium and one of the top Kremlin leaders.

The court is to report its findings to a Communist summit meeting Nov. 7 in Moscow and recommend whether the Moscow or Peking policy line is to prevail.

NATION-WIDE POLL

Liberals Overtake Tories

VANCOUVER — For the first time since the Tories took over the government in 1957, the Liberal party has stepped ahead of the Conservatives in the popular vote.

According to the Province, the latest standing reported by the nation-wide Gallup Poll gives the Liberals 43 per cent of the vote, compared with 38 per cent for Prime Minister Diefenbaker's Tories. The CCF climbed to 12 per cent from nine while others, including Social Credit, have risen to seven per cent from three.

Conservative support has fallen off badly in Quebec since the defeat of the Union Nationale by the Liberals in June.

While the Liberals appear to have won Quebec back, the Conservatives hold a narrow edge in other parts of Canada the survey reports.

RED AGENTS STILL ACTIVE SAYS MOBUTU

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP) — Congo strongman Col. Joseph Mobutu charged today that Communist agents are continuing clandestine operations here two weeks after they were supposedly ejected from the country.

Mobutu said that Thursday night his men seized a powerful radio transmitter and receiver plus a stock of ammunition in the closed Czechoslovak embassy.

U.S. Plans 'Freeze' On Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is considering the use of economic sanctions in its deepening conflict with the Cuban government of Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

These plans, calling for export controls on a limited number of items, may follow a U.S. decision Thursday night to close down the $110,000,000 nickel processing plant it owns and operates in Cuba's Oriente Province. There is no direct relation between the two moves.

The state department said the plant's operation has been harassed by the Castro regime and subjected to what it called confiscatory taxes due to go into effect Saturday. The Cuban government rejected a U.S. offer to pay "a reasonable tax" on nickel shipments from the plant, the department said.

YANKS COME HOME

There were these other developments:

1. The state department said all American men in Cuba are being advised to send their wives and children back to the United States to avoid harassment by Cuban authorities.

2. Castro made a TV appearance in Cuba and said U.S. citizens in Cuba have nothing to fear. "North American citizens can count on all guarantees and security," he said.

3. The Castro government, in a new diplomatic rebuff, refused to accept a U.S. note protesting nationalization of American-owned banks in Cuba.

Tentative plans for the controls, which may be imposed in the near future, have been worked out by the state and commerce departments.

MAY AFFECT CHEMICALS

While details have not been disclosed, indications are that machinery for oil refineries and chemicals used in the refining process will be brought under the export control system.

Such actions would hamper Cuba's operation of U.S. oil refineries it has seized and is using to refine crude oil obtained from Russia. Oil experts say Russia cannot provide replacement parts for the American-built machinery.

Under the Export Control Act of 1949, President Eisenhower has broad authority to prohibit or curtail shipments of commodities to any foreign country.

SIDES WITH KHRUSHCHEV

'Life or Death' For UN—Sukarno

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — President Sukarno of Indonesia today urged reorganization of the United Nations "to reflect the true position of our present world."

"This question is urgent," Sukarno told the General Assembly.

"It may be a matter of life or death for the United Nations. It is essential that the distribution of seats in the Security Council and other bodies and agencies be revised. I am not thinking in this matter in terms of bloc votes, but I am thinking of the urgency that the charter of the United Nations, of the United Nations bodies, and its secretariat should all reflect the true position of our present world."

The Indonesian president was sympathetic to views expressed to the assembly earlier by Premier Khrushchev and in effect endorsed them. Khrushchev has recommended the secretary-general's post be held by three men—one each from the Western, neutralist and Communist nations.

Airliner Missing

Diefenbaker Salutes Freedom for Nigeria

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today Nigeria can pattern its independent future in the Commonwealth after Canada.

His statement saluting Nigerian independence Saturday was released by his office today, and addressed to the Nigerian people.

"The people of Canada feel a special affinity to Nigerians on this great day of the achievement of independence for, as you know, Canada was the first member of what is now the Commonwealth to demonstrate that both independence and a close association with the Commonwealth can be, and has been, happily maintained," he said.

Looting In Nigeria

LAGOS, Nigeria (UPI) — Reports of fierce fighting between rival political factions in the north today cast a shadow over Nigeria on the eve of its independence from Britain.

Nigeria will become the 16th African state this year to achieve independence when 60 years of British rule ends Saturday.

Reports from Benue province in northern Nigeria — a Moslem stronghold — said that white persons were not involved in the fighting which erupted last month between supporters of the Action Group-Bornu Youth Movement Alliance and the ruling Northern People's Congress Party.

At least 29 persons have been killed in clashes in the remote Wukari and Tive districts, and marauding bands were reported burning and looting villages Thursday in spite of police claims that the situation was "quiet."

Mac Will Fly To Washington For Conference

(Times News Services)

UNITED NATIONS — Five top neutralist countries today called upon President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to resume their personal diplomacy with a face-to-face conference.

Premier Jawaharlal Nehru of India, President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic, President Sukarno of Indonesia, President Tito of Yugoslavia and President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana submitted for immediate general assembly action a resolution asking for the meeting.

The move resulted from a "neutralist summit conference" held Thursday night at the Yugoslav Embassy in New York. It followed a personal appeal earlier this week from Nasser for the two men to meet and discuss disarmament.

The five neutralist leaders acted as the cold war impasse grew steadily worse.

A two-hour meeting Thursday night between British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev ended in complete deadlock.

The situation was so serious that Macmillan decided to fly to Washington this weekend for a conference with Eisenhower and Australian Prime Minister Robert Menzies on the Soviet's roughhouse tactics in the United Nations and to co-ordinate allied strategy for the fight ahead.

There were rumors Eisenhower might make a third visit to New York during the UN session but there still was no indication he would meet with Khrushchev. They have not met since May when Khrushchev torpedoed the Paris summit conference.

Macmillan and Khrushchev were reported not to have discussed a possible Eisenhower-Khrushchev meeting. Eisenhower has opposed such a meeting until Russia meets certain conditions but Khrushchev has indicated he would accept a meeting.

The five neutralist leaders submitted their resolution in a letter to assembly president Frederick H. Boland of Ireland and asked that he submit it to the world parliament "for immediate action."

No Thought of Ike, Nikita Meeting

Prime Minister Macmillan's two-man summit meeting with Khrushchev Thursday night lasted for more than two hours and ended in what appeared to be a complete deadlock between East and West.

Khrushchev and Macmillan did agree to "think over" the major problems they discussed and to meet again.

Macmillan, who will be accompanied to Washington by British Foreign Secretary Lord Home, was expected to discuss in detail his conversation with Khrushchev and to co-ordinate Anglo-American strategy for the remainder of the United Nations sessions.

There was no thought of an attempt by Macmillan to bring Eisenhower and Khrushchev together.

The suave, silver-haired British leader did not appear on the surface to have been upset by Thursday's shouting, table-thumping interruptions by Khrushchev during Macmillan's UN address.

But he was grave and emerged without a word after his conference with Khrushchev Thursday night.

A British foreign office spokesman revealed the two men had made no progress on the three major problems they discussed—Berlin, disarmament or the Russian call for dismissal of UN secretary-general Dag Hammarskjöld.

"Each side expressed its views and held to them," the spokesman said.

Nikita Plays Host

NEW YORK (UPI) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev invited 20 Communist and neutralist leaders to his Park Avenue headquarters today for a luncheon expected to advance Russian arguments on Africa, disarmament and reorganization of the United Nations.

It was the first big social affair held by the Soviet leader since he arrived in New York and Russian sources said the lunch was more of a pleasant little get-together than a working meeting.

But the persons invited outside of the Communist bloc were leaders of nations Russia has been wooing in recent years in an effort to draw them closer to the Socialist camp.

The principal neutralists were Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India, President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic and President Tito of Yugoslavia. Western leaders were not invited.

The resolution declared that the assembly was deeply concerned with the deterioration in international relations which threatens the world with grave consequences and that the world expected the assembly to assist in easing world tension.

Then it "requests, as a first step, the President of the United States of America and the chairman of the council of ministers of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics to renew their contacts, interrupted recently, so that their declared willingness to find solutions of the outstanding problems by negotiation may be progressively implemented."

Khrushchev Backs Down?

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Indian correspondents at the United Nations today quoted "highly-placed sources" as saying Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev does not intend to press his demand for the abolition of the post of UN secretary-general.

The Times of India said it was "India's impression, gained after painstaking exploration, that Mr. Khrushchev will not raise the question of changes in the United Nations structure formally."

Similar reports appeared in other newspapers.

'Full Speed Ahead' Plan For Columbia Project

Planning for Columbia River hydro-electric projects is going ahead at full speed, B.C. Hydro chairman Dr. H. Keenleyside said today.

A progress report on negotiations was made to Ottawa and B.C. this week, and engineers are working on details of development approved by Canadian and U.S. officials.

Initial plans of B.C. Hydro are expected to include dams on the Arrow Lakes and at Mica Creek, to cost about $300,000,000.

Dr. Keenleyside said the first step to be taken by the public-ly-owned utility will be to make application for title for portions of the river involved, and for a water licence. Public hearings will be held to iron out local objections to the plans, he said, and may start in two months.

After these are cleared away and a water licence granted, the project will go back to the international level for a treaty, he said.

"We are gearing things so there will be no delay," he said.

Details regarding which part of the river will be developed first, and who will pay for it, have not yet been disclosed.

'Mr. K Buttered Macmillan's Bread'

By JOHN McNUTT

United Press International
Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's angry heckling from the floor of the UN General Assembly gained him little sympathy or support today from the neutral nations he has courted so fervently.

COLUMBIA

At the same time Premier Bennett expressed confidence in a "go-ahead" of the Peace River development, stating the two large-scale projects can progress together.

DISCUSSION

He said at a press conference today he had discussed plans of the Wenner-Gren interests in the Peace River with Viscount Chandos, leading British investor in the project, but did not reveal details.

There have been no discussions between his government and Ottawa on financing of the Columbia dams, the premier said.

He would not comment on the joint progress report.

"All I know is what I see in the papers," he said.

Reds Offer Congo Aid

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—Congolese strongman Col. Joseph Mobutu said today Communist China has offered Premier Patrice Lumumba's government direct aid of $2.5 million in response to a plea for help.

Several African nations, including Ethiopia, seemed unhappy over Macmillan's defence of the British colonial position in Africa.

"It reminds me of the British behavior toward colonial peoples in the old days," he said.

STRATEGY BACKFIRED SAY OBSERVERS

Nikita 'Badly Misjudged' Mood of UN Delegates

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.

(AP)—Conviction is growing among UN observers that Nikita Khrushchev's spectacular outbursts, far from being spontaneous tantrums, are coldly planned and calculated instruments of Soviet strategy.

And the strategy, they add, is backfiring.

"Khrushchev has badly misjudged the mood of this assembly session," said one source close to the African delegates.

Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain, in his dispassionate, coolly reasonable exposition of the world's key issues, apparently struck a telling blow for the West in the propaganda cold war, if the reactions of the majority of delegates are any barometer. And his approach caused Khrushchev, apparently, to fall into a trap of his own making.

Here is how the reasoning goes:

Huddled BEFOREHAND

Khrushchev had a good idea of what to expect in the speech by Macmillan—the ranking spokesman on hand for the Western alliance. Minutes before the day's debating began, Khrushchev caucused in a tightly screened huddle with his Communist satellite leaders.

As the Soviet premier may have expected, Macmillan captured the mood of the delegates and adroitly appealed to it. His approach was calm, his attitude that of a man sombely approaching solemn deliberations on life-or-death issues facing the world community.

And Macmillan had reasonable proposals.

Khrushchev set out, say some observers, first to intrude on that mood of reasonableness, and second to capture the centre of the world stage again.

This performance, and the belligerent language Khrushchev used in his comments after the speech was over, strengthened the impression held by many that his mission in New York is not to reach agreements, but to mark time, to fight a holding action for world communism, which is unready to move aggressively in today's dangerous circumstances.

NEUTRALS

James Wadsworth said earlier this week that unless Khrushchev showed some reasonableness his visit would be useless and the sooner he went home the better.

At the Khrushchev-Macmillan meeting:—Agreement was reached on one thing, Khrushchev will repay Macmillan's visit early next week. Meantime they will think over their differences.

—The question of President Eisenhower seeing Khrushchev was not discussed.

—Macmillan will stay here longer than he originally intended.

The meeting with Khrushchev was "calm and reasonable." But, under questioning, the spokesman admitted it might be termed grim. He said he would use the word "serious."

The summit meeting, first time the men had met since the breakup of the Paris conference last May, could have had scarcely a worse prelude and it appeared that Khrushchev had deliberately created a bad mood.

The Russian premier broke into Macmillan's UN address Thursday and forced the Briton to stop speaking while he shouted in Russian. He pounded the table in protest at Macmillan's sharp rejection of Russian propaganda in a speech which Western observers thought the most eloquent so far delivered at the General Assembly.

Then, just before Macmillan arrived at the Soviet headquarters residence, Khrushchev came out under an umbrella and compared Macmillan with Neville Chamberlain, the First World War prime minister who has been blamed for appeasing Hitler. Khrushchev said Macmillan was taking a similar role with German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

The foreign office spokesman was asked whether Macmillan was aware that Khrushchev had characterized him as a "Chamberlain." "I am not aware that Mr. Macmillan was aware, but in our country the chamberlains are very distinguished people."

Khrushchev came out with Czech President Antonin Novotny after Macmillan's visit but—once—he would say nothing about it.

Earlier he had rattled answers back in shotgun style to reporters, predicting that the meeting with Macmillan would not lead to anything.

'A Humiliation to Our Country'

Asked if he would seek a meeting with Eisenhower to try to patch up differences, Khrushchev said:

"You expect me to ask Eisenhower for a meeting? It would be a humiliation to our country."

In other developments in the UN:

The United States struck back at Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro's charges of American "colonialist policy" in Puerto Rico by furnishing the General Assembly a statement from Luis Munoz Marin, governor of the island. It said in part, "Puerto Rico has freely chosen its present relationship with the U.S. . . on the basis of mutual consent and respect."

Russia forwarded a request from parliamentary deputies in the Congo, asking that UN forces in the Congo help Prime Minister Patrice Lumumba regain authority over the Congolese government. The deputies' message asked for help from Lumumba to free the country from "rebels and usurpers."

Prince Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia addressed the assembly and urged that Cambodia and Laos be declared a neutralized zone, under East-West guarantees.

Zulfikar Ali Bhutto, Pakistani cabinet member, backed Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld against Khrushchev's attacks on him and rejected Khrushchev's proposal to replace Hammarskjöld's office with a three-man committee.

B. P. Koirala, prime minister of Nepal, told the assembly the smaller nations should play a stronger role in the UN to avoid becoming "a football between the two blocs."

WESTERN EUROPEAN REACTION

Brickbats for Mr. K But Bouquets for Mac

LONDON (Reuters) — Western Europe today handed bouquets to speaker Harold Macmillan and brickbats to heckler Nikita Khrushchev.

An editorial in the London Daily Telegraph said of the British prime minister's speech Thursday in the United Nations General Assembly.

"Mr. Macmillan delivered some telling blows which sped under the Soviet guard right to the most painful places."

The Daily Mail, declares Khrushchev "banged the table when Mr. Macmillan was referring to the summit fiasco."

"He had better not bang too hard. For he is banging on the fervent hopes and the tremendous aspirations of the world."

A "BRILLIANT" JOB

The Daily Mirror says Macmillan "did a brilliant job for Britain" at the UN by refuting "the Khrushchev lie about 'British colonialism'."

The London Times says that in calling for an international experts' panel to work on disarmament, Macmillan had given the UN "a concrete and useful proposal, with no propagandist trimmings."

The Times adds that "... It amounts to a new approach to disarmament as a whole."

Communist writers on both sides of the Iron Curtain criticized Macmillan's speech.

SOVIET CRITICISM

The Soviet news agency Tass said Macmillan "obviously adhered to the views of the United States" while the Communist London Daily Worker said the prime minister was "Uncle Sam's spokesman from Whitehall."

Moscow Radio commentator Anatoly Gan accused the British prime minister of "attempts to whitewash and distort the true aggressive aim of military alignments like NATO, SEATO and CENTO."

But the Paris newspaper Figaro calls the speech "moderate and constructive."

The West German government said it welcomed Macmillan's address with "particular satisfaction."

A West German government spokesman added the British premier was "the first representative of one of the big Western powers to reject so clearly and decisively the allegations against West Germany made at the United Nations by the Soviet Union and its satellites."

'CANDIDATES ALIENATE ARAB WORLD'

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — A spokesman for Saudi Arabia today denounced Vice-President Richard Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy for their support of Israel and said America's policy in the Middle East has "alienated" the Arab World.

Ahmad Shukairy, Saudi Arabian minister of state for UN affairs, told the United Nations General Assembly that the two presidential candidates "have declared that he who succeeds to occupy the White House will not hesitate to support Israel."

Macmillan Criticized By Gomulka

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — Polish Communist leader Wladyslaw Gomulka today accused Prime Minister Macmillan of supporting a militarist West Germany which has designs on Poland's territory.

Gomulka unexpectedly took the rostrum as the UN General Assembly resumed its debate this morning, speaking under the assembly's right-of-reply procedure.

Macmillan had defended West Germany Thursday against Soviet charges that it harbors militarist aims.

Gomulka pitched his counter-attack entirely to charges against the West German regime, which he said is asking "again for equality in arms."

"Her Western allies yield step by step to their demands,"

Like Khrushchev before him, Gomulka compared Macmillan to the late Neville Chamberlain, who was prime minister at the time of the Munich conference on the eve of the last war.

ALONG WITH COMPLIMENTS

Cold War Issues Occupy Mac, Dief

NEW YORK (CP) — Prime Ministers Diefenbaker and Macmillan held talks Thursday night that emphasized a meeting of minds in chasing after the answers to cold war issues.

The Canadian leader was the guest of the British prime minister for a fill-in on Macmillan's meeting with Premier Khrushchev at the headquarters of the Soviet delegation to the United Nations.

The hour-long Diefenbaker-Macmillan session, over coffee in the Macmillan hotel suite, followed a day in which the prime ministers had shot compliments back and forth with the zest of two volleyball players.

HEARD HIMSELF PRAISED

Early in the speech, Diefenbaker heard his own address to the UN Monday described as "arresting" and pointing out "the choice before us." There were other mentions by Macmillan referring to the Canadian presentation as "brilliant" and "dramatic."

Diefenbaker, after listening to Macmillan, said on leaving the assembly hall: "It was a masterful speech delivered with all the power of his own experience to two world wars and his desire to do what he can to save mankind from itself."

At a press conference later Diefenbaker said the Macmillan proposal for attacking the disarmament problem from a scientific viewpoint deserves a tryout.

OFFERS SOME HOPE

He said he regards the Macmillan suggestion that scientists and technicians meet to lay the groundwork for political action on disarmament at least offers some hope out of the arms impasse.

Asked whether he considered the scientific approach to the broad field of disarmament more difficult than the single issue of nuclear tests, he said: "Scientists are not always subject to the same considerations as statesmen. Science crosses frontiers."

On the nuclear question, he was asked what he thought of the idea of carrying through with a proposed atomic explosion in the Athabasca oil sands in Northern Alberta, adding to world knowledge on detection of underground nuclear blasts.

"We believe there should be an end to nuclear testing," he said, "and we would not want

NEUTRAL CHAIRMAN JOHN D. PLAN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — Canadian Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker suggested informally Thursday night that a neutral nation be called into East-West disarmament talks to act as chairman.

The suggestion was the West's first concession to Russian demands that the 10-nation disarmament committee be expanded.

Canada is one of the five western nations at the current Geneva disarmament conferences. The East also has five members.

Diefenbaker made his proposal in a talk with newsmen at his hotel. He said appointment of a neutralist chairman would "constitute a step forward" in disarmament talks which broke down last spring when the Russians walked out after demanding expansion of membership.

The Canadian leader made clear, however, that general expansion of the committee's size as suggested by the Soviets would "not add to an early agreement."

Rail Probe Resumes On Oct. 11

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's Royal commission on transportation appears to be moving into the home stretch of its long investigation of railway and freight rate problems.

The six-man commission, now in its second year of hearings, adjourned public sessions Thursday to Oct. 11 after completing a three-week round of hearings.

The Alberta government will lead off when the commission resumes its inquiry next month — with six briefs to present on various aspects of the railway and freight rate problem.

The Growing Problem

TO THE NOW-OFFICIALLY recognized problem of serious unemployment Mr. Diefenbaker must add the closely allied problem of a slump in the gross national product. This vital index of the nation's annual output of goods and services shows an alarming drop for the second quarter of the year. And it is a decrease in actual volume—not one to be explained away by a change in the price level.

Quite apart from the basic situation of the country which is demonstrated in the statistics—and reflected also in the summer's high unemployment totals—the falling production figures hold an immediate problem for the Government.

Finance Minister Fleming's current budget is based on his calculation that the gross national product this year would total between $36.5 billion and $37 billion, an appreciable increase over last year's $34.6 billion. But on the basis of figures for the first and second quarters of the year, the gross national product is more likely to total somewhat less than $35.5 billion, representing an increase of only 1.4 per cent by volume over last year.

Salaries, wages, sales turnover, dividends—these are the bases for much of the country's tax revenues. When they fall below estimated levels, as shown in the gross national product total, the Government's revenue must likewise fall. The latest reports, then, indicate that Mr. Fleming can hold little hope of accumulating the $12-million surplus which he had forecast for the year ending next March 31. The tax base for his revenues apparently will not be there.

The reasons given by the statisticians for the fall in the GNP are of a fundamental nature.

Shabby Action Toward Indians

IT SEEMS INCONCEIVABLE that trespassers on reservation islands in this area would steal the poor possessions of hard-pressed Indians. It seems inconceivable that they would be so careless with fire that they placed the shelters and even the whole islands in jeopardy.

Such have been the depredations of picnickers and visitors to these islands, however, that the Indians have decided to post guards.

This is a sad commentary on our times. When adults of long residence here were boys, they were not considered trespassers on the islands. They were visitors who gave to the natives the respect to which they were entitled in their communities. They knew enough about fires to avoid creating unnecessary hazards. They recognized the rights of property and did not pick up and Canada's export trade was down and so was domestic buying. Investment in housing and industrial plants decreased during the first half of the year. Business inventories declined. A slight increase in consumer spending in the second quarter could not offset these downward forces, although August exports show a relative increase.

Back of even these fundamentals is the sober fact of Canada's high production costs, particularly significant in a country which must depend so heavily on export sales.

Protective tariff devices for Canada's producers cannot alter that fact. Only low selling prices, based on low production costs, will win us a place in world markets and help us to compete with other countries. Meanwhile higher tariff protection tends to keep high the domestic prices of goods.

Mr. Diefenbaker's economic problems are accumulating, not dissipating. While a national government may not be directly responsible for adverse conditions as they occur, it is certainly responsible for serious attempts to find a remedy. Canadian conditions have now reached a point where a large-scale, penetrating remedy must be applied; superficial and limited palliatives cannot meet the need.

No longer can we say that such and such a set-back is temporary, that this or that difficulty is merely seasonal, that waiting will solve a question. Canada's basic need is trade, and making it harder for other countries to sell to us—and consequently for us to sell to them—will never provide a cure.

That is Mr. Diefenbaker's dilemma: He is committed by party policy to protectionism, in the face of a problem that demands increased trade as a solution.

take away possessions which belonged to others.

The fault today is largely one of ignorance. The "laws" of the beach are not known and hence cannot be observed as they were when everyone was familiar with them.

But ignorance does not excuse the faults of those who have caused the Indians loss and concern. Nor can any plea of ignorance be made in cases in which a canoe, fishing tackle and other personal gear is stolen.

There are many grounds on which white men should feel shame in their treatment of Indians. The thefts, vandalism and carelessness with fire which have aroused Songhees anger in recent days are shabby, disgraceful and humiliating. They can be tolerated no less by white authorities than by the Indians themselves.

Garment of Death

IN A CORONER'S EPILOGUE to the tragedy which claimed the life of Court of Appeal Justice Mr. Sidney Smith in Vancouver the other day, the statement is made that the garment he wore was as inflammable as a sheet of newspaper.

The loosely woven light-weight material apparently touched an electric hot-plate on which the judge was preparing food. It caught fire and the burns suffered by the wearer were fatal.

This is the most recent case of its kind brought to wide public notice. A few years ago, however, newspapers here and in the United States gave prominence to the number of serious burns, some of them critical, caused when a type of pull-over sweater then popular touched a naked flame or extreme heat.

At that time parents were urged to investigate the clothes in their children's wardrobes and to get rid of those with such a high degree of inflammability.

Apparently the warning is still needed, and not only for children. Tragedies of the kind which took from the Court of Appeal so eminent a jurist—or which claim the life of anyone—are far too costly to be measured in terms of dollars and cents lost by discarding a dangerous garment.

Witnesses for the Defence

ALTHOUGH CERTAIN OF THE overseas delegates to the United Nations meeting in New York have been restricted in their movements, there is no reason why some other notables should not take advantage of their first visit to the United States to get a first-hand view of North American life.

New York City, while exhilarating and inspiring in many ways, cannot hope to give a visitor a well-rounded picture of the United States. The Times of that city suggests in particular that Marshal Tito, President Nasser and perhaps Poland's Gomulka might profit by an extended tour.

"We are thinking here," says The Times, "of men who are willing to act on the evidence of their senses and reach judgments on the basis of reality."

This was the hope when Mr. Khrushchev made his coast-to-coast tour just a year ago. For a while he seemed visibly impressed. But what could he have seen to make him act as he has been acting lately? And is the remedy another look, or no looks at all?

With One Final Homer

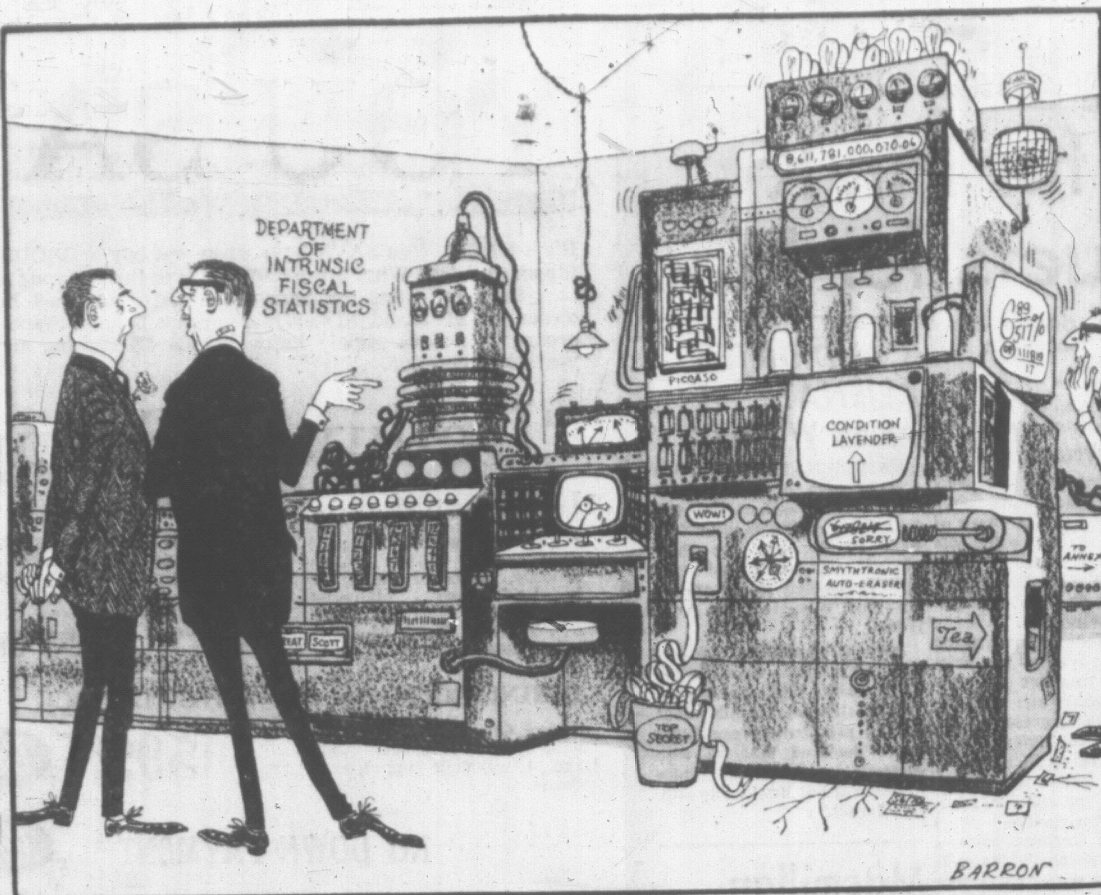

ALMOST IN THE TRADITION of Babe Ruth pointing to the flag pole in centre field and then hitting a home run over it, Ted Williams has marked his retirement from baseball with a dramatic flourish.

His 51st homer, followed immediately by the statement that his playing days were over, is a fitting gesture with which to mark the end of a spectacular career in baseball. He moves now from the base paths to some other field of operation in the Boston Red Sox organization.

A great baseball player, a controversial figure whom some called proud, others arrogant, leaves behind a remarkable record in his specialty.

Like Maurice Richard in Canadian hockey, he bows to the years. "The old order changeth, yielding place to new."

"... Our new automatic electronic unemployment computer ... takes the place of seventy-nine employees ... tells us when to put a crash public works project into effect ..."

AROUND THIS TIME OF YEAR

What You Might Call a Heartfelt Appeal

IT was a happy choice of words which led a Reuters correspondent to describe a new artificial heart made by medical experts in Denmark as "no bigger than a large suitcase." For while the physical muscle that pumps our blood is of limited size, poetic references to the human heart are wide enough in their scope to require a suitcase-sized organ. We use "heart" in so many contexts, in fact, and call on the word to hold so many ideas, that perhaps a steamer trunk would be a more appropriate symbol.

It's hard to say when people first began to refer to the heart as the proper container for emotions, feelings, beliefs, loyalties, ambitions, courage, compassion, sorrow and other assorted things. But the practice seems to go back to early times. Our own era is adding a good many new items to the contents of the suitcase.

To the Point

It's much easier to call on a man to "have a heart" than to ask him to entertain a responsive emotional attitude. "The heart of the matter" sums up in a short phrase what might take a whole paragraph to describe. It gets, ah, well it gets right to the heart of the matter.

This is the time of year when a person does well to lift the lid of the suitcase and take stock of what is inside. It's a time to check on just how much your heart is willing to carry for the coming year. There are a number of suggestions floating round.

There are quite a few sick or infirm folk in town, for instance, who need a hand now and then, and they can be a fairly important part of the load your heart should carry. Find room in the suitcase for them, and it won't be hard to find someone to help you carry it.

The Victorian Order of Nurses, the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, the Muscular Dystrophy Association, for instance, will give you a hand with the suitcase if you will keep it filled.

Helping Hand

Or take the blind citizens, or the elderly. The CNIB and the Silver Threads people will give you a lift with the suitcase if you'll put something in it. In other words, they'll do the work if you will provide the wherewithal.

Or take the many folk in the community who need help with domestic problems, delinquent children, broken homes and other troubles. It isn't hard to have a full heart for such victims once you hear of individual cases.

The Family and Children's Service can find the cases and provide aid for them—but there has to be money to keep the baggage bulging.

Or take the John Howard Society, helping prisoners after they get their freedom and try to re-establish themselves. Take the Boy Scouts, the YM and YWCA, the Sunshine Camp at Saseenos for people who wouldn't get a summer holiday otherwise. Save room in the suitcase for the Christmas Bureau, which organizes giving to the needy at Christmas and sees that no one is forgotten.

None Missed

Keep a corner open for the St. Vincent de Paul Society, which provides advice or goods or both for anyone who is in need. And don't forget the St. John Ambulance people and their first aid services, the Mental Health organization, the Citizen's Recreation Rooms, or the Welfare Councils which, with volunteer members, try to plan and organize phases of the community's welfare work.

You'll have twenty-two articles to put in your suitcase, along with all the other things close to your heart. To keep them operating will take only a money contribution from you—it will mean life, it will mean heart's blood, for them.

So when the Community Chest calls on you for a donation, open up the suitcase for them. It'll do your heart good.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

'Chosen People'

I was interested to read in the church page (Sept. 17) that the Celtic-Saxon nations, "Great Britain, the Dominions, the United States and the Scandinavian countries" are reported to be Israel "chosen as God's servants so they can set an example."

It seems to me unwarranted to place so much emphasis on race and ancestral blood when we read that "God is no respecter of persons, but in every nation, he that feareth Him and worketh righteousness, is accepted." (Acts 10:34, 35.) Are such ones not all chosen to be examples irrespective of race or color? God says, "Ye shall be gathered in by one, O ye children of Israel." (Isa. 27:12.) This does not foreshadow any racial mass movement, but individual consecration.

It seems to me that it is the consecrated Christian people who are being gathered out of "every nation, kindred, tongue and people, that are to set an example" and give the last judgment message to the world. The inspired apostle Paul makes it clear that it is true Christianity that makes a true Israelite, a true descendant of Abraham and a true inheritor of all the promised blessings. "If ye be Christ's, then are ye Abraham's seed, and heirs according to the promise." (Gal. 3:29.)

press he did not identify the "Western Millionaires." His courtesy was wasted as, two weeks before Saturday Night went to press, they insolently and recklessly identified themselves over their own signatures in the final week of the B.C. election campaign, in huge advertisements in B.C. newspapers.

So now we know that the party, led here by Ray Perrault, rejected wisely, even though Perrault did not win this local election—the domination of the cynical interests which have dominated, and will continue to control, Premier Bennett. Perrault lacked their lavish slush fund not because they had a poor opinion of his ability but because he and Lester Pearson—mistakenly them and have seen fit to refuse their influence over Liberal policy and future legislation.

Now we know that Premier Bennett (and only he), and the B.C. so-called Social Credit party (and only it) are the man and the local party which is the owned instrument of a collection of "Big Shots" who would have been anathema to William Aberhart; and we know precisely who are these "Big Shots." Aberhart must be writhing in his grave that 39 per cent of B.C. voters calling themselves by the name of the party which he created lately elected the openly admitted tools of the kind of Big Shots he set out to destroy, and that Chant, one of Aberhart's political discards, now poses here in Victoria as the leading representative of his philosophy.

Now we know not only precisely who these Big Shots are, but why they finance Premier Bennett—which is not because they like or respect him or his followers but because he—and only he—will obediently serve their orders; while a party they would prefer refuses their slush contemptuously.

E. H. DAVIDSON.

Liquor for Indians

I would like to ask the Provincial Government, through your paper, a few simple and honest questions.

Why is it that the native Indians of B.C. are allowed to vote provincially and not federally? All Indians' financial and business transactions are handled federally.

Why are the native people denied the liquor privileges which are enjoyed by others? It seems to me that this would have been one of the first privileges offered the Indians. For I believe that it was through liquor and false promises that they obtained Canada from us.

If you feel that we have become a burden to Canada, I will clearly state that this is the price one pays for neglect.

In closing I would like to add, if this is a democratic country, let us enjoy at least a fraction of its democracy. Give us equal liquor rights.

Moves And Counters

By MAX FREEDMAN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.: President Eisenhower is engaged now in an unprecedented effort to win the support of neutral and uncommitted nations as he strives to isolate the Communist bloc at the General Assembly. There is no doubt that something more than a two-thirds majority already exists at the General Assembly to sustain the authority of Secretary-General Hammarskjöld and to prevent the Soviet offensive from mutilating the agenda for this session. It is important, however, that the majority should accurately reflect the balance of world forces.

With this aim in mind Mr. Eisenhower has dedicated himself to the task of having representative leaders in all the various political regions of the world speak in defence of American policies and the agreed purposes of the Western world.

By this indirect method Mr. Eisenhower has succeeded in obtaining many Asian and African spokesmen who have been rounding up votes among their friends in support of the Western position.

On the other hand, there will be no advantage to the United Nations if the Russian defeat is so spectacular and humiliating that it will lead to an inevitable reprisal by Mr. Khrushchev to salvage his wounded pride. If the Soviet Union and all the Communist states proceed to engage in a diplomatic boycott of the secretary-general's office, the strain placed on the normal functioning of the world organization will be so great that Mr. Hammarskjöld may choose voluntarily to resign as the one certain method to end the paralyzing deadlock.

Hateful Challenge

It is Mr. Eisenhower's calculation, however, that Russia will draw back from this hateful challenge to the United Nations if Mr. Khrushchev discovers that the neutral and uncommitted world, where Russia seeks its major economic and political gains, has turned against the Soviet initiative or is sharply divided on its merits.

Should this American estimate prove correct, it would mean the greatest diplomatic defeat suffered by Russia since the beginning of the cold war. It would also of course mark the greatest diplomatic achievement of Mr. Eisenhower since he became president.

Mr. Eisenhower knows that his activity at the General Assembly has given him the chance to round out his presidency on what may prove to be a high note of achievement for world peace. That is why he has gambled with his immense personal prestige in this difficult exercise in diplomacy.

It is too early as yet for the final verdict but the interim judgment must be that he is making a valiant contribution to sustain the prestige and authority of the United Nations, and in the process is adding lustre to his record as president.

The immediate point and issue turns on the question of disarmament. Mr. Khrushchev has suggested that the membership of the disarmament commission be raised from ten to fifteen with the inclusion of five neutral powers.

The United States has opposed this suggestion by arguing that a mere change in membership will not facilitate agreement on disarmament while Moscow and Washington are separated on the great questions of inspection and control. Spokesmen for the Communist world have indicated that Mr. Khrushchev, as a compromise gesture, may be willing to accept only three neutral states as additional members.

Greatest Acclaim

Mr. Nasser of the United Arab Republic received the greatest acclaim of any speaker at the assembly when he suggested that Mr. Eisenhower and Mr. Khrushchev should meet without delay to consider agreement on disarmament proposals. If the two leaders wished to invite other members to participate in this conference, they should feel free to do so; and the support and facilities of the United Nations should be constantly available during the negotiations as additional incentives to agreement.

Mr. Nasser said there was no excuse to avoid an immediate conference since Russia and the United States had repeatedly said they want disarmament as the major objective of their national policy and as the supreme necessity of a world at peace.

It must be understood that the General Assembly's enthusiasm for President Nasser's proposal was inspired by its swift recognition that Mr. Nasser was trying to arrange a summit conference limited to the one problem of disarmament, instead of striving for a conference that would cover the whole angry agenda of East-West controversy.

This was a high stroke of statesmanship that won the respect from the General Assembly that it unquestionably deserves.

Advance Indication

An American spokesman said the United States would negotiate on disarmament only if Russia refused to regard such a decision as a victory for "Communist pressure strategy" and if Russia indicated in advance that it would be ready to discuss the problem of control and inspection in a serious way, and without producing the arbitrary arguments that prevented discussion at the recent Geneva conference on arms control.

The immediate crisis at the United Nations is over but the underlying tension remains with all its ugly force. But the West is united, it is undismayed, it is winning more friends all the time, and it is armed with the conviction that it is protecting the United Nations from an assault whose triumph would mean a tragic and dangerous intensification of the forces hurrying mankind to the abyss of war.

In such a cause the Free World can march with unshaken fortitude, resisting with equal confidence the surprises of Russian diplomacy and the bluster of Russian power.

FDR With Red Hair

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Although I'm no dramatic critic, I would say that Hollywood has done a good job of characterizing Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt. But in the portrayal of FDR's hair, the verisimilitude disintegrates.

These are two of the impressions I formed while attending a private screening of "Sunrise at Campobello," which is the movie version of the real life version of the late President's struggle against polio.

West

The film has been timed for release during the current presidential campaign and parts of it have a strong topical flavor. Studio officials insist, however, that it is non-political and I will take their word for it.

One curious thing about it is the title, which I presume was meant to be symbolic. The picture itself never shows the sun rising at Campobello although there is one scene taken at sunset.

The role of Mrs. Roosevelt is played by Greer Garson, which might sound like a casting office disaster. But you would be surprised at how well Miss Garson impersonates the former first lady, including her rather distinctive voice and facial expression.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., who attended the screening and who should be an authority, said he thought Miss Garson ought to win an Oscar for the job she did on his mother. I think the make-up man ought to get an Oscar, too, for the job he did on Miss Garson.

With that kind of help, Marilyn Monroe could play the part.

The ability of Ralph Bellamy to project the image of FDR already had been demonstrated in the stage play. This is maintained in the movie version with one distracting exception.

In some of the scenes, the lighting arrangement makes it look like he had red hair. I suppose this will delight some of FDR's old critics but an unbiased viewer may have a fleeting impression that Bellamy is doing an imitation of Roosevelt doing an imitation of Lucille Ball.

After the screening, FDR, Jr., who looks even more like his father than Bellamy does, was asked how the picture affected him. He said it brought back a lot of memories of his childhood at Campobello and Hyde Park. He said all the Roosevelts who had seen the film thought it captured the family life of that era.

There were, as you know, as many Roosevelt boys as Kennedy boys, if such a thing is possible. The image I had of the elder Roosevelt did not fit the scenes that showed him romping with his sons, but FDR, Jr., said they were authentic.

Other than the red hair, he said he found only one fault with the film. It was a little too rough on grandmother.

LONDON LETTER

Jackie Never Sold Her Story

LONDON—At random... Jackie Chan, half-Chinese former friend of Tony Armstrong-Jones, has never cashed in on the big money she could have made by selling her story to the press but there is no doubt of the fact that the association has helped her career. Theatrical bit parts she formerly got have now become much more important roles on stage and screen and she has now been launched as a singer.

Her first disc, singing Gentlemen Please! also gets her started with the more ritzy name of Jacqui Chan. Polite verdict of the record critics: "Different."

Something new for Britain—newspapers in sections, North American style. This has been pioneered by Canadian Roy Thomson's Sunday Times, most flourishing British paper in the postwar period, with 40 pages a time. (Nearest contender can never get beyond 32 pages).

The Sunday Times (no connection with The Times) now splits into news and magazine section and its rival in the quality Sunday field, the Observer, has hastened also to present the British public with this sectional novelty.

And mention of the dear old Times reminds me that they came up with my favorite news story of the week. This was the complete story: "Did not leave track. British Railways stated that it had been confirmed that the train which ran over some drain pipes and boards at Ashham, near Barrow-in-Furness, did not leave the track and then jump back on the rails, as was thought at first."

Names out of the past: Jessie Matthews, who says obliquely that "my passport says I was born in 1911," has arrived home after a three-year stay in Australia, where she has been running a drama school. Older English people remember her as the darling of London's musical stage in the late 20s and early 30s. Reason for the home-coming: a yen to tread the boards in London again—but as a straight actress this time.

War Objector Barred By Lawyers

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP)—In 6-3 decision, the state supreme court held Thursday that Robert Boland Brooks, a conscientious objector during the Second World War, was not entitled to practise law in Washington.

The opinion, written by Judge Joseph A. Mallory, upheld the board of governors of the state bar association which denied Brooks permission to take the state bar examination, maintaining he was not of good moral character.

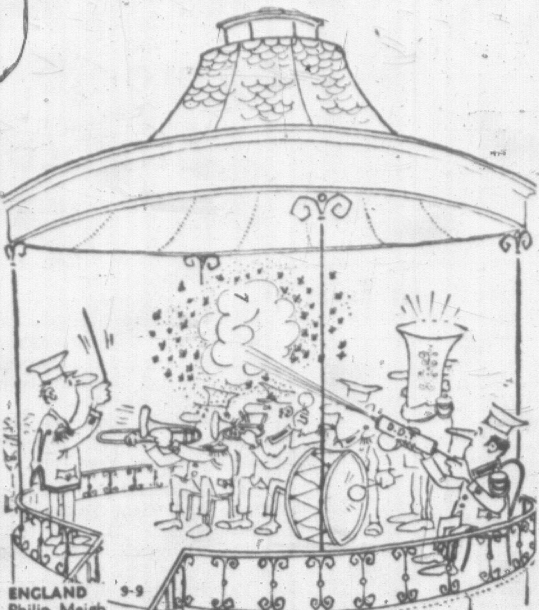

A dissenting opinion, written by Judge Matthew W. Hill, contended that choosing prison in preference to military service did not mean that Brooks was not of good moral character.

Brooks, 53, was sentenced to three years in prison for refusing to report to a conscientious objector labor camp.

CLC OFFICIAL BLASTS OFF

Teamsters Labelled Lawless, Predatory

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Canadian Labor Congress official said Thursday the Teamsters Union is a lawless, predatory organization and its international president is a liar.

Bill Dodge of Ottawa, CLC executive vice-president, said in an interview that Teamsters head James Hoffa is a liar when he says the CLC asked the Teamsters to rejoin the congress.

Mr. Hoffa, visiting Vancouver, said at a press conference Wednesday night the CLC had approached the Teamsters twice.

Mr. Dodge said some self-appointed intermediaries tried to intervene.

He made his remarks after saying in a speech to the western district convention of the International Woodworkers of America (IWA) that the Teamsters were expelled from the OTTAWA (CP)—A meeting of the 17-member national council of the Social Credit Association of Canada has been set for Winnipeg Nov. 17 and 18, said a party statement issued here on Thursday night.

The council includes the national executive plus a representative from each provincial association. Discussions will include policy and planning the entire strategy through the national leadership convention and up to the next election campaign.

The statement said the conference will coincide with the annual meeting of the Social Credit League, now embarked on an organizational drive.

Youths Introduced to Flowers

This week is about the last chance for potting up bulbs for winter flowering indoors.

It seems that Brownie and Wolf Cub pack leaders find this a suitable project to introduce the growing of plants to their young charges.

Every child should know the thrill of planting a bulb (yes, even one bulb), and watching the development of roots, leaves and, ultimately, the flowers.

Full directions for the actual process of potting the bulbs, the soil mixture required, and the different methods used by gardeners to provide the necessary rooting conditions were given in this column on Thursday, September 22.

Since the bulbs already contain the embryo flower when purchased, it can readily be understood that large firm bulbs will produce the best results. Daffodils (including all the narcissi), hyacinths and tulips are the easiest for children to handle, in the order given.

Certain kinds of daffodils have wonderfully strong stems and firm textured flower parts. Suitable early varieties for beginners are Golden Harvest, Magnificence, King Alfred, Carlton, Fortune and Beersheba (a pure white). Later ones are Cheerfulness, Geranium and Redguard, all with more than one blossom on each stem.

Any of the heavy, large hyacinth bulbs offered for sale locally will be good for pot work, but beginners with only a few bulbs will do best with the pink, white and blue colors.

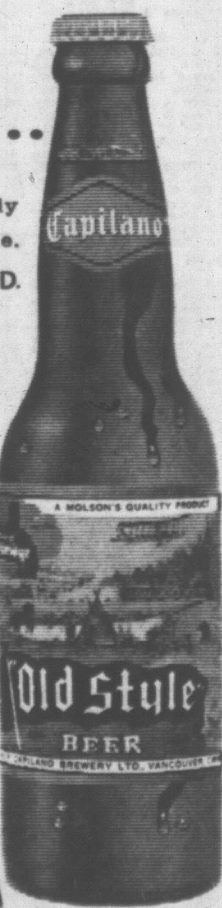

The yellows are lovely, and unusual, but in my experience not so easy to raise.

Tulips should be chosen from among the single earlies, and double earlies. Look for names such as Crown Imperial, General de Wet, Keizerkroon, Prince of Austria, Sunburst—all singles; and El Torador, Madame Testout and Peach Blossom for doubles.

The fragrance of many of these early tulips will be an unexpected addition to the young gardener's pleasure.

RENEWED FINANCE TALK SCHEDULED FOR OCT. 26

Round two of federal-provincial finance talks will open in Ottawa Oct. 26.

Premier Bennett and Attorney-General Bonner will be B.C.'s representatives at a two-day meeting in the capital.

First such conference this year was held in July.

The new talks are expected to set up a revised agreement for distributing and sharing tax revenues.

Finance Minister Donald Fleming said last April the provinces would get a new deal. However, there was no mention of details at the July meeting, when each province outlined its needs and proposals to Ottawa.

One of B.C.'s proposals at the meeting was immediate action of a national medical insurance scheme.

Surgery Can Aid Deafness

WINNIPEG (CP)—About one-third of all people suffering some form of deafness could be helped by new surgical techniques, an American doctor said Thursday.

Dr. Samuel Rosen, a New York otologist, said the operation has already restored hearing to more than 250,000 persons.

The doctor carefully pointed out that the deafness he is referring to is otosclerosis, a very common type "and one of the most curable."

Dr. Rosen, who addressed the International College of Surgeons, explained that this type of deafness comes when the stapes bone—about one-tenth the size of a fingernail—is curtailed from its activity by a growth of bone which forms around it.

Cluster Lights Modern Lights In Compromise

Should Victoria "go modern" or try to keep some Old-World charm?

City council debated Thursday for more than an hour the pros and cons of modern mercury street lights and the traditional cluster lights without coming up with a final answer.

Sentiment and hard-headed business mixed continually as proponents of both attitudes clashed head on during the battle.

The upshot was approval in principle for:

1. A $137,000 program of hooking all downtown street lights into an underground and automatic wiring system and erection of modern lights on

Winter Works Assistance

At the same time, city officials were authorized to apply for federal government winter works assistance for the whole $350,000 so that cost of modernizing the street lighting system could be eased—if council decides to go all the way.

But the whole question will have to be thrashed out again because council sent it back to the lighting committee "for further study" to see if a compromise can be reached.

Finance committee also was given the job of recommending

Mercury in Business Blocks

All other business blocks would get modern mercury lights, he suggested. Cost of the mayor's suggestion will be calculated for the committee's consideration.

"We might be able to retain the old-fashioned atmosphere this way without sacrificing safety," he said.

All aldermen agreed the cluster lights were inefficient and costly but they split on how cherished they were by citizens and tourists.

Beauty Fined For Beating Tot With Belt

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The girl who was Miss United States in 1957—for 24 hours only—has been convicted of child beating. Leona Gage, 21, former Maryland beauty, was fined $25 Thursday and placed on probation for two years. The misdemeanor charge accused her of striking her son David, 5, with a belt.

"You can't punish children in that manner in this day and age," said municipal judge Gerald Kepple.

"I was spanked 50 times harder when I was a child," replied Miss Gage. "I want him to stop playing with razor blades."

She now is wed to dancer Nicholas Covacevich. The boy is her son by an earlier marriage.

Miss Gage won the Miss United States title in the Miss Universe contest. But the next day she was dethroned because judges learned she was married and had children.

UNTIL AFTER HEARING

All Work Ceases On PNR's Line

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Pacific Northern Railway has halted all work on its 700-mile rail line to the Yukon and will not complete plans until after B.C.'s Public Utilities Commission holds hearings on the railway, company president Bernard Gore said Thursday night.

Public Utilities Commission hearings are scheduled to start Tuesday in Vancouver.

Mr. Gore said the railway could not make any commitments or plans until the commission decides jurisdictional matters regarding the railway.

The commission will decide whether B.C.'s Railway Act or the commission itself has jurisdiction to deal with a new railway in its preliminary stages.

The railway began construction of marshalling yards at Summit Lake, northwest of Prince George with approval of the B.C. government under the Railway Act. The Public Utilities Commission means to find out whether it should have been consulted first.

NAME DIRECTORS

A meeting here Thursday saw 11 directors appointed for the railway, which is backed by the interests of Swedish financier Axel Wenner-Gren and British and Canadian companies.

The three-man executive committee of the board of directors will hold its first meeting Monday, the day before commission hearings start.

Directors in addition to Mr. Gore are: Lord Tweedsmuir; W. R. Birch, a Toronto barrister, who will represent Perini Canada Ltd.; Allan C. MacDonald, executive vice-president, industrial, of A. V. Roe Canada Ltd.; Sir Roy Dobson of London, managing director of the Hawker Siddeley industrial group and chairman of A. V. Roe Canada Ltd.; H. Gordon McHaffie of Toronto, president of Associated Electrical Industries Canada Ltd.; Brig. Donald Clarke, Vancouver barrister, also representing Perini; G. S. and H. G. Dixon, brothers, who are senior executives of Cleveland Bridge and Engineering Co. of London; K. Birger Strid, representing Wenner-Gren; and W. A. Small of London, managing director of Associated Electrical Industries.

Messrs. Gore, MacDonald and McHaffie comprise the executive board.

Each of the 42 Rotary Clubs on Vancouver Island and in western Washington, Virgil R. Lee, governor of District 502 of Rotary International, will address Victoria Rotary Club at its luncheon meeting in the Empress Hotel next Thursday at 12 noon. Mr. Lee is a partner in the insurance and real estate firm of Virgil R. Lee and Son, Inc., and a past president of Chehalis Rotary Club. He is a former Washington state senator and served as assistant to the secretary of the U.S. treasury. In Victoria he will confer with Rotary president Roy Denny and secretary Robert Wallace.

Civil Servants Delay CLC Tieup

OTTAWA (CP) — Delegates years of service, 25 after 15 to the Civil Service Association of Canada convention formed a five-man committee Thursday to study for two years the question of affiliation with the Canadian Labor Congress.

The 100 delegates from across Canada earlier had shelved a resolution from the Toronto council urging affiliation with the CLC.

Named to the committee were J. A. Norton of Ottawa, M. J. Reid of Kingston, Ont., John Gill of Montreal and Harold Baker and Tom Rothery, both of Vancouver.

Cal Best, president of the 30,000-member CSAC, has been cool towards affiliation with the CLC because of its connection with the forming of the new political party embracing the CCP.

He said earlier in the week that no Crown employees should be connected with a labor group having a tieup with politics.

The committee was ordered to report the next biennial convention in 1962.

Commenting on affiliation, CLC president Claude Jodoin said in an interview later that the CSAC or any other federal or provincial employee association had nothing to fear from any connection the CLC would have with a political party.

"The CLC will reserve its own right to confer with whatever party is in power," he said.

OTTAWA MEETING OCT. 6

B.C. Legal Team Talks Constitution Amendment

A B.C. legal team will go to Ottawa Oct. 6 for talks which it hopes will at last establish a united approach to Canada's constitution.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner will head the delegation to the British North America Act conference.

For years there has been division and confusion about terms of the act, set up by British parliament in 1867.

In effect, the act controls Canada's legislation. It is Canada's constitution.

It cannot be amended by Canada alone; it must be administered by the Privy Council in England.

"NEW QUEBEC"

The provinces have in the past never been able to agree on united action to act independently of this tie. Some of them, such as Quebec, have upheld the rigidity of the statute as preserving their identity and preventing majority amendments to Canada's constitution of which it did not approve.

However, this year, much is hoped of the "new Quebec" with a Liberal government, replacing that champion isolationist, the late Maurice Duplessis.

One of the main services technically protected by the BNA is education policy.

While the power of "veto" or obstruction has never been used by the Privy Council, Canadian governments have for generations been sensitive to the implication that Canada lacks identity of her own.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker is a prime mover of amendments to the BNA, and also, if possible its repeal.

The conference in Ottawa, Mr. Bonner told the Times, will attempt to set up a formula of amendments.

"We will examine the various proposals which have been made as to how the statute might be 'domiciled' in Canada," he said.

A united stand in Canada would at least make possible more and quicker amendments to the constitution.

It might also hasten its demise.

NOT THWARTED

Mr. Bonner pointed out that "actually Canada has never been thwarted" because of the BNA, and that many arguments against the BNA are based on principle only.

But B.C. is willing to discuss all aspects of the problem, he said.

"Previous examination of the subjects has founded on the attitude then held by Quebec."

"It will be interesting to find out what that attitude is now."

Going to the two-day meeting with Mr. Bonner will be his deputy, Dr. Gilbert Kennedy and legislative counsel Gerald Cross.

Time has a different meaning for those who live in darkness...

The tragedy of blindness may come to anyone in the community. The Canadian Institute for the Blind brings light into the lives of the sightless by helping them to adjust to this handicap. Checking the time with a Braille watch is an example of how the blind are taught to live with a minimum of dependence on those around them.

RED FEATHER SERVICES HELP A SCORE OF NEEDS!

The Canadian National Institute for the Blind is one of twenty-two agencies which receive financial aid from the Community Chest to assist them with the vital work they are doing in the community. A Community Chest, generously filled, will keep these services well prepared to fill the growing need.

SPORTS DIARY

By JIMMY CANNON

NEW YORK—The obsolete stunts of small time show business makes baseball appear to be a tentless carnival. Jazz bands give concerts in the stands during games in Cleveland. The scoreboard in Comiskey Park explodes with an incandescent ecstasy when a white Sox player strikes a home run.

You can buy a pizza at the hot dog bazaar in Cincinnati. In St. Louis, before the Browns moved to Baltimore, a midge made the box score as a pinch-hitter.

Prizes are presented to biffs in lotteries reminiscent of the impoverished years when movie managers gave dishes away. In some towns rock 'n' roll mumbler do their turns on stages set up on the pitching mound instead of infield practice.

But Lonesome George Weiss ignores the fads. Since 1948, when he became general manager of the Yankees after operating their farm system, which he founded in 1932, Lonesome George has not defaced the sport which he reveres with a joyless passion. The game as it is played on the field is all that matters to him. It is his belief that the supervisor of a big league franchise is neither a carnival hustler nor a bingo game dealer.

This sour and remote man, who is due to retire along with Casey Stengel after the World Series, has been the greatest baseball executive of his generation. No one compares with him as either a procurer of talent or as a negotiator. He does it in the obscurity his shy nature demands and he never intrudes on the fame of his players.

The opposition nags him because they are jealous of his achievements. He is unpopular with those whom he defeats with a bland regularity. Often his grumpy personality alienates those who admire him for his obstinate loyalty to his oddly idealistic philosophy of the sport.

The publicists on his payroll are not expected to praise his unchallenged ability. It is his wonderful theory that the players should get the credit. He never fights them for newspaper space as other general managers do. He doesn't engage in public arguments and replies infrequently to those who ridicule him. He allows his ball clubs to speak for him in the bickerings between general managers which rage on the sports pages.

Casey a Comic Only After the Game

This pennant must have pleased him as much as the one in '49. I was among those who believed that Bucky Harris should get another shot after losing in '48, which was Lonesome George's first season as general manager. But he canned Harris and brought in Stengel, who immediately won his first of 10 pennants.

It didn't bother Lonesome George that Stengel had a reputation as one of baseball's clowns. He knew that Stengel was a creative manager who was only a comedian after the ball game. In that year Weiss bought Johnny Mize from the Giants, and they couldn't have won without him. It was that way in '51 with Johnny Sain and in '52 it was Ewell Blackwell.

It was tribute to Lonesome George when pitcher Luis Arroyo came in to get the last man out in the game in Boston that gave the Yankees their 25th pennant. Anyone could have bought Arroyo from Jersey City but they backed off him. At 34, after blowing with three big league clubs, the other people decided that the guy wasn't worth another try.

This indicates the faith Lonesome George has in the help. The best scouts in the sport work for him, and he accepts their decisions. He realizes a team is only as good as its scouts.

Since '51, the year he came up to Pittsburgh, Dale Long has been with second-division teams. With the Giants this season his average was .167. But Lonesome George didn't hesitate when the Yankees had an opportunity to get him.

They needed a left-handed pinch-hitter and Lonesome George instigated the proposition that brought him to New York. He has done more than could be expected of him.

It should be remembered that in '49, the Yankees were Joe DiMaggio, Phil Rizzuto, Tommy Henrich, Hank Bauer, Billy Johnson, Johnny Lindell, Gerry Coleman, Vic Raschi, Allie Reynolds, Gene Woodling, Joe Page, Bobby Brown, Eddie Lopat and Yogi Berra. All Berra remains.

When age dispenses a great team, it generally takes a long time to assemble another one. But Lonesome George required no intermissions to rebuild. The Yanks continued to win even while he was putting a new club together. They should erect a special edifice for him at Cooperstown because, in this era of the gimmick in baseball, Lonesome George is only concerned with the game as it is played—nine men to a side.

'NOT A LAST-PLACE CLUB'

Spirit Changing Rangers Into Winners

(Coach, New York Rangers)
NEW YORK (UPI)—There's two sides to every coin, and I suspect there must be two sides to the Rangers.

I've seen the good one in training camp, and I'm ready to believe it. They can't be as bad as they looked last season.

This is my first camp experience as a big league coach, and I've seen a transformation of a dispirited format outfit into one that believes in itself.

They ought to. The hard core of this club finished as high as second place just three years ago. They should be getting better rather than worse. Most of them are just reaching their peak.

And the kids in camp are pushing them just a little harder. Take Jack McCartan, our Olympic goalie. He isn't the most polished goalie in the world, but what he hasn't mastered in technique, he makes up in spirit and holler. He's doing a fine job, and I'd say his help indirectly to get the best out of our regular Gump Worsley.

We came to camp realizing we needed more strength down the middle, and that's where we're concentrating our efforts. We have three fellows at center ice who are young without being raw, who did very little playing for us before.

Brian Cullen, who is 26, was with us all last year, but spent too much time on the bench. He couldn't have been in good shape. Now he's working well with Andy Bathgate and we've got young Dave Balon on the other wing at least until Dean Prentice recovers from a knee operation.

Earl Ingarfield, another centre, is also 26. He came up from Cleveland after a terrific year in the American League, and he's pivoting for Camille Henry and Andy Heberton.

Our third centre, Ted Hampson, was drafted from Toronto, though he started originally in our organization. He's 23, intelligent and aggressive in a clean way. He'll have Ken Schinkel on his right side and a rookie, Len Ronson, on the left.

That leaves two of last year's centres, Red Sullivan and Larry Popein, for spot assignments and penalty killing, and they could also work on a line with a rookie from Three Rivers, Leon Rochefort, who looks good.

We still have seven defencemen with us, and it's going to be a job figuring out who to cut. The fellows we've added are Jim Morrison, from Detroit, and Don Johns of Winnipeg.

Don't ask me where we'll finish. I just know this is not a cellar outfit. It isn't playing like one and it isn't saddled by a losing complex. And it's going to be good for a change, to open on home ice.

HE'S BEEN THERE BEFORE

Could Be Worse, Jim, Like, Uh, Five Thirds?

By HAL MALONE

Jockeys are among the most cloistered personnel at a racetrack.

Apart from talking to themselves, to each other and to the trainers of the horses they ride, they lead virtually a monk's life.

They must report to the jockeys' room an hour before the first race. They can't leave until they are finished for the day. Even if a rider has only one mount—and that in the last race—he must spend his time in the confines of the room.

To find out what they think, how they feel, the Times attached its hypothetical thought machine to their cerebellums Thursday when they weren't looking.

VOILA!

Here's what came out:

Don Cresser: "Yippee. Wait till they hear about this in Calgary. I ride three. I win three. Easy, too. You could say me and Red fooled some people with Helendale and Eddie Who. But they're used to these small tracks. I didn't know about Saanich Prince. But when they opened up at the head of the stretch I knew we had the money. If I could do this every day..."

Al Sherman: "Poor start—good finish. Man, I didn't think I was ever going to get my picture taken today. I blow the first two races and then I think I have it made when I climb on that even-money shot, Junior's Comet. He breaks good enough then he sort of groped himself and I'm eight miles behind. He does a little running on the turn but he hung in the lane. I couldn't have blamed those people if they throw some tomatoes at me."

PISTOL HOT

"Then Jimmy Halket—say, he's doing good at this meeting—ain't he—says Akin is ready and how right he was. I sure liked the way Jay M. Jay went. He's hotter than a pistol over here. Lessee—two for seven. I'll take it."

Jimmy Broomfield: "Five seconds. What do I have to do to win? Every one of them had a chance but they just didn't have enough to make the grade. I thought I had it for awhile with Armed Leaf, but Sherman comes along on the grey and I'm dead. Oh, well, I'm in front and they still have to catch me."

George Miller: "That Davendel is a dilly, isn't she. Two for two. She comes out of that gate like a flea stung her. How about that Arden Drive? Twelve times in the money in 18 races. He's not going to catch Eddie Who—they ran the first part too fast—but he's a honest sonofugun."

Charley Ulrich: "They creamed me—good. I get the outside with McGillicuddy and Mt. Cheam and that takes care of you good at that first turn. I pretty near fainted when they made Doll Song the favorite. There was all kind of speed with her and she doesn't like that too much. She likes to roll out here and hear her hooves rattle. Not today. Like the man said, today I shoulda stood in bed."

MUTUEL MURMURS... Traditionally a slow betting day, Thursday proved a pleasant surprise to track operator Bill Randall... The handle was $44,366—up $4,100 over the same day last year... The weather may have something to do with it... As commission steward Clay Puett said: "This is like California—without smog."... Form chart is on Page 12.

ESKS LOSE WALKER

Points Important To Calgary Cause

Have the Saskatchewan Roughriders really crawled out of the pit of defeat?

How will Winnipeg Blue Bombers react to their first defeat after 10 straight victories?

The answers may come in the Western Interprovincial Football Union this weekend.

Riders, who had lost seven games and tied one until they shocked Calgary Stampeders with a 43-35 setback last Monday, move into Edmonton to night for an engagement against the second-place Eskimos.

Stampeders travel to Winnipeg for another battle Saturday night.

The Bombers were overpowered 15-2 by Eskimos last Monday in Winnipeg's first defeat of the season.

Stampeders stand to gain the most with a win. Victory would give them eight points, one more than British Columbia Lions, holders of the third and last playoff spot in the league.

Eskimos got bad news Thursday. Guard Art Walker, four-time Western conference all-star, is through for the season. He is still bothered by a leg injury suffered in a pre-season exhibition game.

Linebacker Ted Tully, who picked up a back injury against Winnipeg Monday, will be out two or three weeks.

There is one bit of good news from the Edmonton camp. Don Getty probably will be dressed and playing Friday. Getty, a smooth quarterback on his own hook, makes half of a dangerous team when coach Eagle Keys springs Jackie Parker to half-back.

Capozzi Has to Pay For Television Spot

WINNIPEG (CP)—British Columbia Lions manager Herb Capozzi has been fined $50 for public criticism of Western Interprovincial Football Union game officials, Canadian football commissioner G. Sydney Halter announced today.

Halter said the criticism was made during a half-time interview of the telecast of the Lions-Stampeders game at Calgary, Sept. 24.

"The criticism was directed at a call involving a Lions' player contacting the Calgary punter which the game pictures disclose clearly to have been the proper call," Halter said.

Capozzi claimed that as the punt was blocked on the play, the call of "roughing the kicker" should not have been made. Referee Paul Dojack ruled the player for roughing the kicker was not the same player who blocked the punt.

Football Fatality

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Frank Shannon, Jr., 15, of Willis High School in Delaware, died Thursday night of a brain injury suffered in football practice. He was the son of Frank Shannon, head basketball coach at Ohio Wesleyan University.

Shannon was playing for the team when he was hit by a player from the opposing team.

Shannon was 15 years old and was a member of the team.

Individual Titles To Be Decided On Final Weekend

By UP International

Final World Series pitching assignments, whether sparkplug Dick Groat will be available to Pittsburgh Pirates and close races for the batting, home run and RBI totals will be decided on a weekend that wraps up the major league baseball season except for the series.

Both manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees and Danny Murtaugh of the Pirates are providing pre-series tests for their prospective starters in the big show starting next Wednesday.

Stengel gave Whitey Ford his final outing Wednesday and is following tonight through Sunday with Art Ditmar, Bob Turley and Ralph Terry. Murtaugh is firing Vern Law (20-8) tonight and will follow Saturday and Sunday with Bob Friend and Vinegar Bend Mizell.

EYES ON Groat

Actually Murtaugh's chief concern will be the ability of Groat to swing an effective bat. The sparkplug shortstop, who hasn't had an official at bat since Sept. 6 because of a wrist injury, is in a head-to-head battle for the National League batting title with Los Angeles' Norm Larker and wants to win the title as well as get himself ready for the series.

Larker had one hit in four tries Thursday night in the Dodgers' 4-3 loss to St. Louis Cardinals and is batting .324 compared to Groat's .325. Willie Mays of San Francisco Giants ranks third at .320.

The American League batting title also is coming down to the final series with Pete Runnels of Boston Red Sox leading Al Smith of the Chicago White Sox, 317 to 315.

REAL DOGFIGHT

Hank Aaron and Ed Mathews of the Braves are only three RBIs apart, 120 for Aaron to 117 for Mathews, and both are within overhauling distance of the Cubs' Ernie Banks in the NL home run race. Banks leads with 41, Mathews has 39 and Aaron has 38.

The Yankees' musclemen—Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris—carry their home run battle down to the final weekend but both must keep an eye on Washington's Jim Lemon. Mantle, hot in recent weeks, leads with 40, one more than Maris and two more than Lemon.

The Yankees, who now are talking about sweeping their final series with the Red Sox and crowning their 10th pennant in 12 years with a 15-game winning streak to end the season, suffered a possible jolt Thursday when it appeared that Elston Howard would be of little value in the first two games at Pittsburgh.

Howard suffered a dislocated joint in his right hand ring finger and the club physician said he would be unable to catch until the first game in New York, Oct. 8.

ROAD LOOKS ROUGH FOR BAY BOOTERS

Oak Bay booters won't be expecting an easy road to the inter-high soccer crown, they won last year.

The Bays were held to a scoreless deadlock by an ever-pursuing Mount View Club Wednesday in an exhibition tussle at Mount View.

The defending champs were unable to mount a consistent attack against their hard-checking rivals and it took some outstanding work by Oak Bay goalies John Fraser and Murray Johnston to prevent a Mount View victory.

The Bays fared worse in a "B" division match, losing a 2-1 decision to Victoria High.

Seer of Sidney Track Tries Parlay Again

Shudda's sorry, but they keep pulling the horses out from under him.

That leaves money in his pocket so Shudda Haddim, the peerless seer of Sandown, is going to go back to the parlays. Make or break, he says, and they can't scratch 'em all!

ARDMORE, Pa. (AP)—Totton P. Heffelfinger threw caution to the winds. He peered through the mist at the Merion Golf Club scoreboard, noted the United States was 20 strokes ahead with 36 holes to play and commented:

A grain broker who also dabbles in stocks, Heffelfinger admitted today he has had little to do but count up the sensational American scores, accept congratulations and look a little embarrassed as a host who is winning all the marbles.

Second with 433 is the Great Britain-Ireland team, followed by defending champion Australia, with 439; Mexico and New Zealand, tied at 442; South Africa, 445, and Canada and Rhodesia-Nyasaland, each 450.

Prairie Hotshot Tries East Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—Keith Robinson, the 19-year-old heir to the great Western Canadian riding traditions of George Woolf, Johnny Long, Red Pollard, Smokey Saunders and Hedley Woodhouse, has invaded Toronto to test his luck at the New Woodbine race course.

The 19-year-old apprentice staged a brilliant finish to win the fourth race at Old Woodbine Thursday on Pistol Shot for his first eastern victory.

Robinson, a native of Minnedosa, Man., was the prairie's leading apprentice jockey this year with 88 winners. He scored his first win on Dora Valley at Edmonton in 1959 and he is under contract to Tom Patton of Winnipeg.

Several eastern horsemen—notably Conn Smythe—have expressed interest in purchasing the boy's contract from Patton.

PERRIN 'PROTECTS INVESTMENT'

Warriors Put Freeze On Sponsored Juniors

WINNIPEG (CP)—Jack Perrin, owner and general manager of Winnipeg Warriors of the Western Hockey League, has notified New York Rangers and Toronto Maple Leafs they can't operate sponsored junior teams within a 50-mile radius of Greater Winnipeg.

The reason, said Perrin, is "lack of co-operation."

The Leafs have been sponsoring Winnipeg Monarchs and the New York club sponsors the Winnipeg Rangers in the Manitoba Junior League.

TERRITORIAL RIGHTS

Perrin is stopping the sponsorship under terms of the Professional Affiliation Agreement, which gives a professional team territorial rights on players within a 50-mile radius of the city in which it operates, and halts other pro teams from operating sponsored teams in that area without permission.

Perrin sponsors two teams—Winnipeg Braves and St. Boniface Canadiens—in the five-team MJHL, but is only allowed to protect 18 players on each team. Fifth team in the league is Brandon Wheat Kings.

"I'm only trying to protect my own interests... my own investment," said Perrin.

The Warrior owner pointed out that the Leafs sponsor the Monarchs and use the Olympic rink—"which I own"—as home ice.

"I'd have to be the biggest sucker in the world to continue under this setup," Perrin said. "They get to protect

FOUR LANES FORECAST FOR PAT BAY NEXT YEAR

Highways Minister Gagliardi said Thursday Pat Bay Highway will probably get four lanes next year.

He said final decision on the project and its timing will depend on a thorough traffic survey being undertaken by his department.

He expects a report soon.

Traffic boomed between Victoria and Swartz Bay this summer after the government opened its new ferry service to Tsawwassen.

Mr. Gagliardi said the highway would be widened as soon as traffic volume justifies the action.

"It now appears it is at or near that level."

Pulp Mill Mooted For Union Bay

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadian Collieries Resources Ltd. is seriously considering construction of a pulp mill at Union Bay, president Norman R. Whittall said Thursday.

He said the company has three or four months of studies to complete before it can make a definite decision. He said the mill would not cost more than $20,000,000.

Businessman Turned Cleric Given Charge

NANAIMO — Edward N. Boom, businessman turned cleric, will become minister of First Baptist Church here Nov. 1.

For the past two years he has been assistant minister at First Baptist Church in Vancouver, and will be ordained there Oct. 13.

Mr. Boom was born in Holland, but emigrated to Weston, Ont., with his family at the age of eight, and was graduated from Weston Collegiate Institute in 1933.

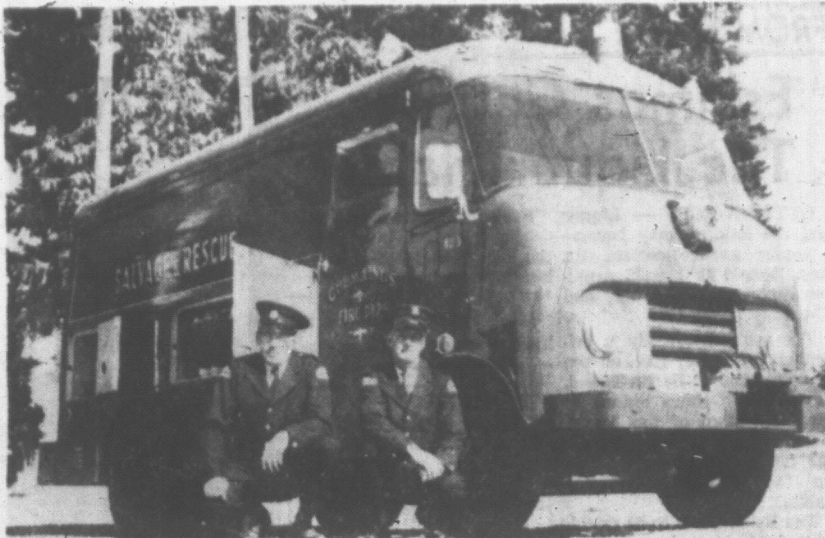

He worked for Dunlop Tire in Toronto, and had a managerial post with Canadian Marconi in Montreal prior to starting a business in Weston with his father in 1942. He joined the church in 1942, then in 1953 decided to make the ministry his full-time career and attended Toronto Bible College with his wife.

He was graduated in 1958, received his theology degree in 1959, and has since studied at UBC.

CHEMAINUS VOLUNTEERS LEAD WAY

Multi-Purpose Fire Truck First of Kind On Island

CHEMAINUS—Something new in volunteer fire department protection arrived here this week in the form of a multi-purpose fire-fighting and rescue truck, first of its type on Vancouver Island.

It was custom built to rigid specifications laid down by Fire Chief Ray Millard and his planning staff, and cost $7,107. Funds were raised through a special bylaw.

Built like a big bread wagon, the truck is designed to fulfill a number of fire-fighting and rescue duties. A series of large compartments along both sides of the five-ton truck carry such equipment as smoke ejectors, portable lighting plant, breathing apparatus, ropes, salvage and rescue equipment, including gear for frogmen, portable pump-jack, and tarpaulins. It carries a heavy duty front-end winch.

FOR CASUALTIES

In addition to its fire-fighting duties, the truck will work with the local ambulance. It is designed for casualty accommodation in case of serious highway or waterfront accidents.

Rated among the best volunteer brigades in B.C., the Chemainus department also operates two fire trucks, one trailer pump unit, and the ambulance. To accommodate the new truck and give the growing department more room for training, a $36,593 addition to the fire hall now is in the process of being completed.

SKIN DIVERS

This truck project is not the first innovation credited to the Chemainus fire department, since it was the first on Vancouver Island to train a team of skin diving specialists for rescue work as an integral part of the brigade.

MILL BAY ROUTE SHIFT IN SPRING

The Mill Bay ferry route will not be re-located until Spring, Highways Minister Gagliardi said Thursday.

He said the route will be shifted north, but sites for the terminals either side of Saanich Inlet have not been selected.

It's expected to run from Patricia Bay to Cherry Point on the west side to serve the Duncan-Cowichan area.

Residents of that area want a closer link to the Saanich Peninsula and the new government ferry service at Swartz Bay.

Council approved a grant of $25 to help defray expenses of the Central Vancouver Island Union Board of Health.

"This is not to be considered as an annual grant," said Coun. W. T. Bowles. "We would prefer them to include it in their budget."

NIXON IS GREATEST

'Set the Record Straight'—Ike

CHICAGO (UPI)—President Eisenhower Thursday night spearheaded the Republican attack on opposition attempts to succeed him in the White House by lashing the Democratic leadership's "stultifying pre-occupation with our faults."

Masking personal sorrow at the death of his wife's mother, the president drew applause more than 20 times and responded buoyantly at a GOP fund-raising dinner as he joined forces with Vice-President Richard M. Nixon through cross-country closed circuit television.

Eisenhower assured GOP faithful that Nixon has the "broadest and deepest preparation and experience of any man I know" for the presidency. As for evaluation of Nixon's role in the Eisenhower administration, he said "certainly no one is in a better position" than he to assess the vice-president's record.

STRONGEST YET
It was the president's biggest endorsement for his 1952 and 1956 running mate.

The chief executive hailed the vice-president as a man of vast diplomatic and cabinet-level experience in apparent contrast to his Democratic rival, Sen. John F. Kennedy.

The president temporarily put aside his personal sorrow at the death of Mrs. Eisenhower's mother—Mrs. Elvera S. Doud—to laud Nixon in his first major political speech of the 1960 campaign.

He planned to discuss foreign policy briefly today at a Polish-American Congress convention before departing by jet plane for Denver to attend funeral services for Mrs. Doud.

Eisenhower felt a deep "personal loss" in the passing of the 82-year-old Mrs. Doud, whom he knew affectionately as "Min," the White House said.

The president attempted to correct any impressions that he downgraded Nixon's contribution to the Eisenhower administration in a speech to a Republican fund-raising dinner here.

MAKING HAY
Democrats have been making political capital out of a presidential news conference comment that it might take him a week to think of any decision Nixon made on a key policy matter.

Eisenhower said he wanted to "set the record straight" with this tribute to Nixon: "His counsel has been invaluable to me. He is dedicated, decisive, persistent in pursuing new ways for improving government and a man possessed of the character, patience and sound judgment so essential for effective leadership in the troubled world of tomorrow."

In a thinly veiled slam at Kennedy, the president added "that Nixon was not a man 'intimidated by selfish pressure groups at home nor tyrants abroad.'"

DAVID BROWN IS COMING TO TOWN

In a copyrighted story, the Daily News said two authorized make-up artists who were supposed to have had a hand in the job denied they had worked on the GOP presidential nominee before his TV encounter with Democratic nominee John F. Kennedy.

Syd Simon, make-up artist who was in the studio on a stand-by basis, said a man carrying a case walked into the studio before the broadcast and maintained he was the make-up man. But Simon did not know his name, the Daily News said.

"We all say a Democratic make-up artist made him up," the Daily News quoted John Hall, business agent of the Make-up and Hair Stylist Union's New York local. "They loused him up so badly that a Republican couldn't have done that job."

TAKING OVER today as the chairman of U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff is Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, 61. He succeeds retiring Gen. Nathan Twining.

BEAVERBROOK BACKS CHINA

LONDON (Reuters)—Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express Wednesday denounced the exclusion of Communist China from the United Nations. The Express says in an editorial: "The largest country in the world is barred from the membership of the so-called world organization by a handful of banana republics and the discredited dictator Chiang Kai-shek. What folly that Britain should be a party to this squalid manoeuvre!"

FROM WHITE MEN

Eskimos Getting The Liquor Habit

OTTAWA (CP)—Liquor and the Eskimo may become a major Arctic problem, Rt. Rev. Donald B. Marsh, Anglican Bishop of the Arctic, said Thursday.

The problem already is evident at Frobisher Bay, on the southern end of Baffin Island, he told the Ottawa branch of the Fellowship of the Arctic. Eskimos anxious to learn from the non-Eskimo were picking up the latter's bad liquor habits.

The Eskimo had to be shielded by teaching him how to handle problems rather than keeping things away from him.

Bishop Marsh said one liquor outlet now exists in Frobisher and more are bound to come.

Frobisher has a considerable settlement of Eskimos who in the old days lived solely by hunting and trapping.

Most types of parrots will live for perhaps 100 years if given good care.

Was Nixon's Make-Up Sabotaged?

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Chicago Daily News says "numerous complaints" about Vice President Richard M. Nixon's facial appearance on television Monday night have led to a full scale probe to find out who was in charge of his make-up.

In a copyrighted story, the Daily News said two authorized make-up artists who were supposed to have had a hand in the job denied they had worked on the GOP presidential nominee before his TV encounter with Democratic nominee John F. Kennedy.

Syd Simon, make-up artist who was in the studio on a stand-by basis, said a man carrying a case walked into the studio before the broadcast and maintained he was the make-up man. But Simon did not know his name, the Daily News said.

Near-Blind Woman Beaten by Thugs

(Times News Services)
VANCOUVER — A partially-blind, 69-year-old woman is recovering in hospital here from a brutal beating by two men who tried to rob her Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Emma Hill received a broken nose, a black eye, and face cuts when two men tried to rob her in her home. Police said her purse was ransacked but there was no money in it.

The men tied her to a chair and hit her in the face several times when she tried to get to the front door.

on Richard C. Smith, 24, with regret. Smith's car hit and killed William O. Hadden, 31, in a parking lot last July, dragging Hadden's body for 15 blocks beneath the car.

Smith drove away and later surrendered to RCMP at Lil-loet.

INQUIRY

VANCOUVER — Chief Justice Sherwood Lett is inquiring into the case of a man who was forced to serve on a jury while seriously ill with arthritis.

He asked New Westminster Sheriff Frank Cotton Thursday to explain his statement that jury records of the New Westminster Spring Assizes were destroyed and that this was normal procedure.

The juror, Hugo Bloder, 62, collapsed May 4, a few days after serving seven days at the assizes. He died in Vancouver General Hospital two months later.

Bloder sent a doctor's certificate to Sheriff Cotton when he was first summoned for jury duty. The certificate requested he be permanently excused.

Mr. Cotton replied that he had presented the certificate to a judge, but the judge was unable to excuse Bloder from jury duty.

The sheriff said later he could not recall which judge he showed the certificate and added that the records had been destroyed.

VANCOUVER — All top officers of the Western Canada region International Woodworkers of America (IWA) were renominated for a two-year term Thursday, but some will face opposition.

Nominated were: for president, incumbent Joe Morris of Vancouver, and Stan Abercrombie, Duncan, B.C.; first vice-president, incumbent R. C. Ross of Vancouver, and Gill Ingram, Port Alberni, B.C.; third vice-president, incumbent Fred Fleber and Syd Thompson, both of Vancouver; secretary, incumbent, George Mitchell of Vancouver, unopposed.

For trustee, Ed Haw, Victoria, was unopposed, but international board incumbents Stuart Hodgson and Walter Allen were opposed by Joe Madden and Jacob Holst. All are from Vancouver.

PLANKS OF ALUMINUM are applied to the hull of a cruiser just as though they were wood. A new line of pleasure craft for next year will combine American and Canadian manufacturing facilities using elaborate aircraft production lines to turn out new 28 to 46-foot cruisers.

METAL PLANKING

Shipyards Borrow Aircraft Technique

Aircraft engineering has come down to earth to improve pleasure boats for next year. Old building methods have been streamlined for a new line of cabin cruisers scheduled to appear next spring.

The boats will range from 28 to 46 feet long and will have conventional lines. But they will be made of planked aluminum. Long strips of the metal will be screwed in place just as a wooden plank would be. Each will be sealed in place with the new wonder adhesive, thikol.

There is nothing new about aluminum boats. Some craft made from this metal over 30 years ago are still in successful service, and aircraft forming techniques have long been used to build them.

After the war, surplus aircraft metal was bought up for boat building, and almost gave the field a bad name. Metals that can fly through the air may not do well sitting in salt water. Some of those early surplus material models were Cabin house and interior arrangements will still be built of wood in the States by Richardson, and in a hands-across-the-friendly border arrangement, the cruisers will then be assembled for sale in the United States and Canada as well.

STANDARDIZATION, SIMPLIFICATION

Common Terms Needed

The world needs a common language for industry, science, labor, government and the public, Alan Telfer of the Canadian Standards Association, Ottawa, said here Thursday.

"More standardization is needed and the common denominator, for a great many things must be established and described," Mr. Telfer told Victoria Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon meeting.

"Industrial mass production, made possible by standardization, was our No. 1 weapon in the Second World War. Yet we cannot possibly estimate the loss we suffered in men, money, time and resources because of the lack of certain proper standards."

Mr. Telfer said a recent investigation showed that eight very similar components, which could be made completely interchangeable, were found under eight different names—pin, pivot, spigot, axle, stub, bolt, swivel and stud.

In another case 32 perfectly plain sheet metal discs bore 32 different names.

VARIETY

"We heard of a case where four bins were found in different stocks of the same factory bearing the inscription: 'Kraft paper brown, brown paper kraft, paper kraft brown and paper brown kraft.'"

"And they were all under different code numbers," Mr. Telfer pointed out that railroad cars all over the North American continent switch easily, quickly and safely from one system to another because rails are standardized.

RUN DOWN BY HER HUSBAND'S TRAIN

She Died for Him—Needlessly

LONDON (UPI) — Mrs. Betty Bristow, 26, always tried to be a perfect wife.

She pressed her husband's shirts every day, prepared his favorite dinners and always packed him a delicious meal when he went to work at night.

But the mother of four never could seem to get her husband, Fred, to work on time.

Bristow jumped up from the television set Wednesday night, late as usual, kissed his wife goodbye and raced out of the house to the train station where he worked as a locomotive fireman. He left some papers behind.

"NEEDS THEM"

"His train crew papers. He'll need them," Mrs. Bristow told the children.

She ran out of the house leaving the door open, and headed along a short-cut to the station.

Bristow jumped into the locomotive, picked up a shovel and fed the flames as the train raced down the track. The train passed near enough for him to see his cottage. The lights were still on.

"Having trouble getting the kids to bed, I bet," he thought, dismissing a momentary worry.

At home, the two younger children, Paul, two, and Sandra, one, fell asleep in their beds without their mother's usual goodnight kiss. Gail, five, and Robin, four, shut the front door and went to bed.

A short while later, police found Mrs. Bristow's body lying near the railroad track. She had been too late to head her husband off and the locomotive he was firing accidentally ran her down in the darkness.

The grief-stricken husband cried: "I didn't even need the papers ... they were completely unimportant ... they were old."

SPACE GIRL MUST WAIT FOR U.S. ROCKET JOURNEY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A spokesman for the National Aeronautics and space administration said today it has no plans now to put a woman in space and doesn't expect to have any in the foreseeable future.

Officials said the day may come when a woman will ride a spacecraft into orbit around the earth to the moon. But that day lies far ahead.

The most recently publicized "girl astronaut" was Jerrie Cobb, 29, of Oklahoma. She went through tests at the Lovelace Foundation in Albuquerque, N.M., where the seven Mercury astronauts had taken physical and psychological examinations.

After she finished, the foundation's director, Dr. W. Randolph Lovelace, said she was qualified to be an astronaut.

But if she rides a rocket into space, it won't be a NASA rocket. And NASA is the only U.S. agency that has scheduled any rocket rides in the next few years.

Suspect Cleared As Hitler Aide

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Argentina investigators were about convinced today that the German-born laborer who looks like Martin Bormann is not Hitler's missing deputy. But there was still mystery about the suspect's background.

Interior Minister Alfredo Vitolo, in a post-midnight press conference, said the explanations given by the one-armed suspect, known as Walter Flegel, were not satisfactory.

"But there are signs which indicate he is definitely not Bormann," Vitolo said.

Interpol, the International Police Organization with headquarters in Europe, is sending Bormann's fingerprints and other data about the Nazi leader last seen fleeing from Hitler's death-stand bunker in the last hours of the battle of Berlin.

Flegel's Argentine wife, Haydee Collinet, 30, said her husband bore "a strange resemblance" to Bormann when she was shown a picture of the Nazi leader Hitler had named as one of his successors.

She said Flegel told her he lost his arm in a Berlin bombing raid but otherwise had been secretive about his past. She suggested his reluctance to disclose his background may be because he entered Argentina illegally.

In Mannheim, Germany, Mrs. Gertrude Wiens told police that the man being held here is her brother, Walter Flegel, who emigrated to Argentina 30 years ago.

DEAD DRIVER AT WHEEL OF DEATH CAR?

WINNIPEG (CP) — A coroner's jury found Thursday night that the driver of a car which struck and fatally injured a high school boy may have been dead himself when the accident happened.

Leon Paul Brenko, 17, died in hospital Sept. 25, five days after he was struck by a car driven by Walter Kalinowski, 61. The driver was found dead at the accident scene.

Mr. Kalinowski had been allowed to leave his job shortly before the accident because he was feeling sick. The jury found that he was suffering from severe shock or was dead when his car hit the boy.

'HAD NO KNOWLEDGE'

Fisherman Wife Win Appeal on Crabs

A Sooke fisherman and his wife have won their appeal against a police court conviction of having undersized crabs in their possession contrary to B.C. fishing regulations.

Mr. and Mrs. William Vowles, proprietors of Sooke Sea Foods were convicted by Magistrate J. M. Thomas in RCMP Court last June 24.

The conviction was successfully appealed in Victoria County Court by lawyer George Gregory and upheld by Judge J. B. Clearihue in a written judgment.

Judge Clearihue found that the undersized crabs were taken from the sea by their son, Larry, without their knowledge.

He noted that William Vowles was on his way to Nanaimo at the time, while Mrs. Vowles was at home recovering from an illness.

Larry Vowles had been told not to fish and was not acting under instructions from his parents when he caught the crabs.

DIDN'T KNOW

"Neither William Vowles nor Sarah Vowles were at any time in personal possession of the crabs," Judge Clearihue said.

"Neither of them knew of the possession of Larry Vowles, who did not act under their instructions of knowledge; nor was he their agent."

Judge Clearihue said these circumstances did not come under the provisions of the fishing regulations made under the Fisheries Act of Canada, and he therefore dismissed the conviction.

He ruled that the Crown should pay the costs of the action.

E. J. de St. Jorre appeared for the Crown.

MONTE ROBERTS

The trouble with me is, I never seem to be around when I'm needed.

For instance, I should have been around during the great Captain Discovery controversy.

You remember the Captain Discovery controversy? There was poor old Bill Hawkins, all alone, calling out in a loud, keening voice: Yes, Virginia, there is a Captain Discovery.

If only I had been around at the time, I could have resolved the whole problem by explaining that Captain Discovery is simply the New Canadian version of the ancient Kwakiutl Indian phrase "Niatpac Yewocid."

Meaning, of course, in free translation, "Land of the Sky Blue Waters."

And I wish I had been around when John Coppinger sent out the clarion call for members to join the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Seagulls.

If I had been around, I would have been a charter member.

In my time, I have known many seagulls, and I have admired each and every one of them.

I am all for preserving and encouraging seagulls. I am gullible that way.

Especially I wish I had been around when Smoky the Cat, the Oak Bay feline who is faced with unemployment due to technological progress, was threatened with eviction, loss of gainful work, and general defamation of character.

I would have dearly loved to rush to the side of Smoky the Cat, tell him how sanitary he was, offer him all the help within my power, and receive, in return, the customary cat expression of gratitude.

Namely, a sharp bite on the left ankle.

I also wish I had been around when the Oak Bay High School students were confronted with the devastating news about parking.

I really mean, no parking.

Things have come to a pretty pass when a young man can't find space to park his car outside his very own school.

The least the authorities could do is, remove the teachers' bicycle racks to make room for the students' cars.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

A sunny Saturday, and "mostly sunny" day Sunday were predicted for the week-end by weatherman William Mackie.

"Stormy weather in the Gulf of Alaska may give us some high cloud Sunday," he said, "but otherwise the day will be pleasant."

Sky will be clear tonight, and the thermometer will drop to a minimum of 42 degrees in colder spots, but will rise to a balmy maximum Saturday of 72 degrees.

Adam Bell of Victoria, formerly B.C. deputy minister of labor, today was named an honorary president of the Canadian Association of Administrators of Labor Legislation.

The association closed its conference at the Empress Hotel today.

Doug Crofford, Regina, will speak at a public meeting under auspices of the Baha'is of Canada in the club room of the YWCA tonight at 8. Mr. Crofford is a member of Kiwanis International.

Mrs. Hendrika Voorsluys, one of 24 new Canadians sworn in at Victoria court house Thursday, comes from Holland — not Austria, as stated in the Times.

George Rowbottom, 85 Cadillac Street, was fined $50 in city police court today for making false statements to obtain unemployment insurance benefits.

Victoria's civic voters list today appeared headed for a drop of about 600 names.

With deadline for new registrations and confirmation of last year's tenant and resident electors' registrations set for 5 p.m., only a trickle of persons were visiting City Hall to get on the list.

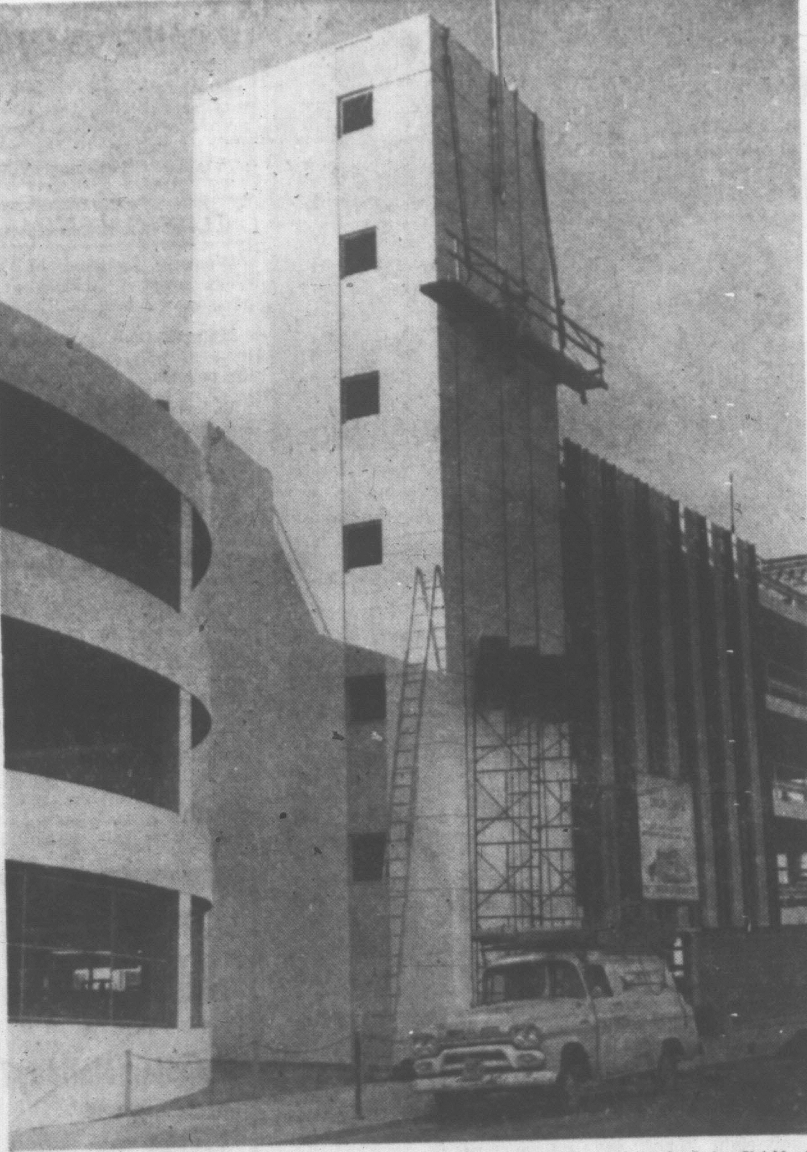

GOVERNMENT'S NEWEST FERRY TO INCLUDE IMPROVEMENTS

B.C.'s new ferry will be essentially the same as its two sister ships, Premier Bennett said today.

He said the Toll Authority which runs the Swarts Bay to Tsawwassen service is now at work on the plans.

"They will make any improvements necessary," he said. Tender will be called "at the earliest possible moment."

Mr. Bennett said this might be in about 30 days. The ferry is expected in service in 1962.

THE CHANGING FACE OF DOWNTOWN VICTORIA

A boom year in large building construction is changing the face of Victoria.

Three of the major projects that will go a long way towards setting a record for construction totals this year are shown in the photos above.

Together they add up to $2,860,000 in capital construction.

OPEN SATURDAY

Immediate attention is focused on the modernistic nine-level parking garage in the centre which is expected to go into limited operation Saturday for T. Eaton Co. customers.

The $500,000 project, built by Farmer Construction, will go into full operation within 10 days—providing more than 400 parking spaces which is expected to see a turnover of 200 cars daily.

The spanking new structure, at Gordon and Broughton, will be officially opened after a passenger elevator installation is completed.

MEDICAL BUILDING

75-Year-Old Man Missing in Woods

Duncan RCMP today were conducting a search in the Copper Canyon area west of Chemainus for Albert Hankins, 75, of Gibbons Road, Duncan, who left his home two days ago on a hunting trip and has not been seen since. He was carrying a rifle.

PEANUTS

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK THAT WHEN I WAS ONE YEAR OLD YOU WEREN'T EVEN BORN?

I'VE NOT ONLY THOUGHT ABOUT IT, I REMEMBER IT... I WAS UP IN HEAVEN WAITING TO BE BORN...

I DIDN'T MIND WAITING, THOUGH...

WE USED TO HAVE SOME PRETTY GOOD TIMES UP THERE!

Photo at right shows the structure held by Luney Brothers and Hamilton, which also dug the excavation for the public building at Blanshard and Burdett, where the city's first underground parking lot will go into operation when the structure is opened.

Battle of Signs Rages at City Hall

Sharp conflict broke out today over a proposal to ban all projecting signs from the heart of Victoria's downtown business district.

The three-member public works committee expressed grave misgivings over the ban.

'Killing' Threat Alleged

A Saanich man who pleaded guilty to carrying a concealed 22 automatic pistol was remanded until next Thursday for sentence after a young woman testified in city police court today that he threatened to "kill" someone.

Magistrate William Ostler also ordered a probation officer's report on Frederick G. Bradstock, 1071 Chesterfield.

Miss Evelyn Norris, 2312 Wharf, told the court that until recently she went out with Bradstock.

She said when she started to go out with another man Bradstock continually kept bothering and pestering her.

On one occasion, she said, Bradstock told her that "if this fellow picks me up, someone was going to get killed."

Stolen Stole Brings Year Jail Term

Pleading guilty to theft of a $600 blue sapphire mink stole, Oswald Critch, 47, no fixed address, was sentenced to one year in jail in city police court today.

The stole, owned by Mrs. J. E. Burke, 644 Baker Street, was stolen Thursday from a cloakroom at the Knights of Pythias Hall, 723 Cormorant.

It was recovered from Critch's room in a downtown hotel.

The court was informed that Critch has a long criminal record.

Nation's Attitude Reflected By Changing Architecture Style

By TONY DICKASON

Social structures are reflected in building structures. This is the belief of Dr. D. E. Alcorn, head of the Royal Jubilee Hospital department of psychiatry.

He referred specifically to Russia which he recently visited for a week while on a tour of the continent and attendance at World Federation of Mental Health in Edinburgh.

Buildings in Moscow are "ornate," said the doctor—his hobby is architecture.

This means "that the government in power is showing how grand it (the government) is," he said.

Simplicity and functionalism is the first phase of architectural development in society, and this generally happens during a period of social turmoil and development.

Then comes the "ornate" phase when the government in power has achieved success and acceptance by the people.

Next step, also reflecting the social pattern is the "restraint and refinement" period, sometimes associated with social deterioration.

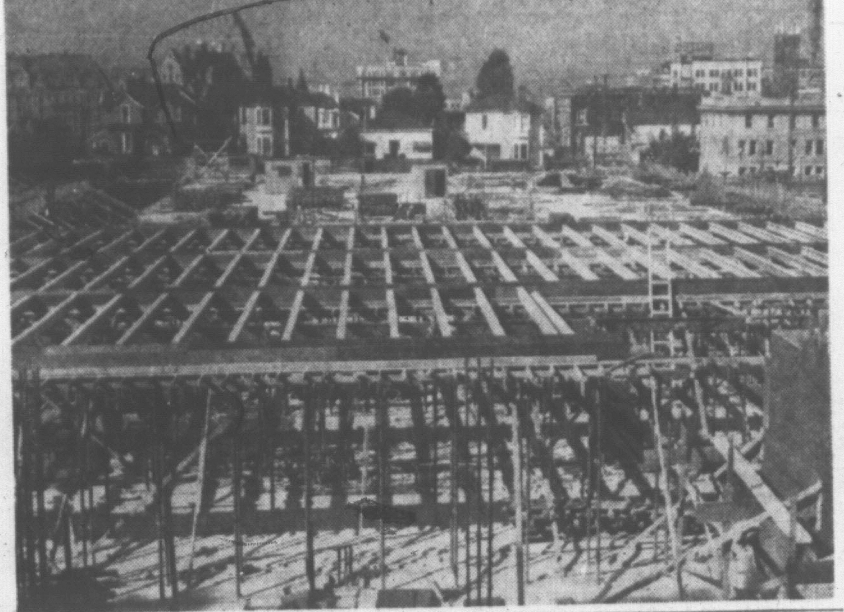

Russia today is in the middle bracket, the doctor stated.

"They feel they have achieved something and want to show it to themselves and the world."

Russia now has 5,000 psychiatrists "and they intend to increase this number."

He said the field of mental health in the Soviet was undergoing a development process, but was still behind the standards it should have achieved.

Dr. Alcorn spent six weeks on his tour.

Premier to N.Y. For Investments

Premier Bennett takes off for New York next week to continue his quest for investments in B.C.

He said he will fly east Tuesday and may not return to the Capital until after the federal-provincial fiscal talks at the end of October.

The premier told a press conference today he is not going east to borrow money. "We don't need any loans," he said.

"AND THINGS LIKE THAT"

"From time to time we may act as fiscal agents for the power commission and things like that."

He said he was more interested in attracting industry and investment in the province.

"You need to invest thousands of dollars for every job you create."

He said he hoped his visit would result in more employment in the province.

WON'T BE STAMPEDED

Premier Bennett still has not decided on his cabinet changes.

He told a press conference today "it takes time" to decide what to do about the defeat of Labor Minister Wicks and Agriculture Minister Steacy in the Sept. 12 election.

He gave no hint of his plans, or when he might shuffle the cabinet ranks.

However, he said, he "won't be stampeded."

Duncan Man 'Holding Own' After Crash

A Duncan man critically injured in a highway crash near Chemainus River Thursday night was reported at press time today to be "holding his own" in Chemainus Hospital.

James Renema, 20, driver of a northbound car, suffered skull and leg fractures when he collided head-on with a car driven by Douglas Williams, also of Duncan. Mr. Williams, who suffered cuts about the face, was reported in satisfactory condition.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: Stephen Henry Michaud, 2494 Trans-Canada Highway, $30, careless driving.

Clifford Ball, 110 Medina Street, $15, no B.C. driver's licence; $15, no current B.C. licence plate.

MENTAL OBSERVATION ORDERED IN ATTEMPTED MURDER CHARGE

Facing a charge of attempted murder, Joseph Altorjal, 1308 Douglas, was remanded in city police court today until Oct. 11 for medical observation at the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Prosecutor T. P. O'Grady told the court there was evidence that Altorjal might be mentally ill.

The accused was charged with attempted murder Thursday after James Cameron, 824 Broughton, laid a complaint with police that he was struck on the arm by a man wielding an axe in the Melrose Cafe on Yates Street.

FOR AND AGAINST

Bighorn Trophy Starts Argument

By DON INGHAM

Condemnation of provincial game branch hunting policy, and a spirited defence by a game official, today boiled up in the wake of an announcement that city sportsman Ron Page had shot a California bighorn sheep in the Princeton-Keremeos area a week ago.

Root of the objections was that the herd consists of only 300 animals, and a three-day season was allowed. During that season six of the animals were shot.

J. H. C. Palmer, 2349 Sooke Road, a conservationist, admitted he is averse to shooting, but still maintained that it is harmful to allow an open season on "such splendid animals."

"It's time this whole subject was put before the public in a rational manner," he said. "It is entirely wrong for us to hunt the way we do."

He also condemned trophy hunting, claiming that it removes the best of the breeding stock in a herd and leaves smaller and poorer animals.

"Natural predators, like cougars, prey on the weakest animals, but a man with a gun can take the best," he said. "We know that too many deer, for instance, will overbrowse an area, but it seems contrary always to kill the best specimens."

DRAWING CARD

A. R. Davidson, 825 Monterey, another conservationist, said wild life is a drawing card for tourists and other visitors, and that such small herds of sheep should not be hunted.

"The game branch should use more discretion," he said, "but hunters constitute a powerful minority which is able to force things on the government."

Inspector Robert Sinclair of the game branch gave assurance today that there is no fear of sheep herds being depleted.

"Our game biologists make careful counts of sheep in each area, and relate the season to the size of the herd," he said. "Other areas had two-day seasons, and another year there may be no shooting allowed at all, depending on how the sheep fared through the winter."

DEDICATED MEN

"Our game biologists are dedicated men who will not allow animals to become extinct," he said.

The country hunted by Mr. Page has only two access roads, he said, and game wardens patrolled both during the season.

"They knew every hunter in the field, and knew exactly how many sheep were killed," Inspector Sinclair said. "Ron Page worked hard for the one sheep he was allowed to shoot. He went into country reached only by horseback, and far beyond that seen by any tourist or visitor."

Triplet Birth At Duncan

Triplets—two boys and a girl—were born today to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ball at King's Daughters' Hospital in Duncan.

The multiple birth was no surprise although Mr. Ball, who works at the Crofton pulp mill, admitted he has been "very nervous."

Mrs. Ball is in good health. They have two other children, aged 10 and 13 years.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. What makes the earth go around? D.H.

A. It is still only a theory, but some scientists believe whirling dust in space was pushed together by remote gravitational forces of stars. The dust compacted to form the sun and a surrounding disc of dust. Turbulence in the rotating disc caused eddies to form which in turn condensed into the planets, like Earth. So we are still spinning from this original turbulence.

Q. Please give a brief outline of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen? T.R.

A. Born at Anderson, Ont., June 16, 1874, he was a member of Commons, 1908-21 and 1922-26; served as solicitor-general (1913); secretary of state for Canada and mines minister (1917); minister of the interior and Indian affairs head (1917); member of the war cabinet (1918) and was prime minister 1920-21, and 1926. He died Aug. 5 this year.

Learn From the French! Use Vanilla Bean—And Save

By PENNY SAVER

No one will deny there's an instinct for thrift inherent in most every Frenchwoman! Whether it's a new ensemble or a meal for the whole family, she'll contrive to achieve it with a minimum outlay. In a downtown store, run by such a woman, I've found one little item that exemplifies this trait—plastic tubes containing two whole vanilla beans that sell for 42 cents.

"Just ee-magine how much you can save!" the owner stressed. "Each time you wish to prepare a dessert you cut a little of the bean off and cook with your custard or whatever it is you're preparing. When finished, rinse in warm water and dry slowly and your bean can be used over and over again."

Diet sheets become obsolete when you visit this store! It's impossible to resist the delicious aromas of delicacies, cooked with a French flair. Even doughnuts, prepared right in the store, come under the European influence. Although the owner now makes them in a machine instead of preparing the "beignets" by hand as in her native country, they still taste just a little bit different. Ones with cinnamon sugar as topping sell at 40 cents a dozen while others, topped with chocolate, maple or strawberry icing, are priced at 50 cents a dozen.

If, however, you are determined to be just a little bit calorie-conscious you'll be interested in delicious pies that are cooked in foil containers and so are minus a lower layer of pastry.

Chicken pies sell at 30 cents while steak and kidney ones are priced at 25 cents.

For a real treat, try some of the chicken rizotto that, served hot, is a rich palate-teaser during cool weather. Rice and chicken livers are combined with various spices to form a meal that's bound to go high on the popularity poll. You can buy some at 45 cents a pound any Thursday, Friday or Saturday. Try some—you'll love it!

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Teen-Ager Is Ashamed of 'Skinny, Shapeless Legs'

Q. "I am just under 15 years of age. Don't you think that I should have some shape by now? My girl friend, who is five months younger than I am, has shapely legs. I have stayed at home nearly all summer and worn slacks. I have been too ashamed to go anywhere because of my 'skinny, shapeless legs.'"

A. You signed your letter "Desperate" and you really sound that way. This is too bad because you have no reason to be worried. Your thighs and calves are in perfect ratio and they are not really small for your age and weight. You are on the slim side and a gain of five or six pounds would help fill out all your contours. Skating will build up your calf muscles and increase the lower leg measurement.

Your letter is a good example of how girls and women magnify any physical defect they may have. Sometimes they even worry when they have none.

Even when there is a real beauty handicap of some sort, others are much less aware of it than the person who has it. Others may not even notice it! I hope all of my readers will take this to heart. Don't make a mountain out of a mole hill!

By all means do all you can to overcome any defect in beauty and then forget it and have fun. Remember that others are not so concerned with every detail of your appearance as you are, nor do they look at you under a microscope as you look at yourself. They will, however, immediately feel the impact of defects in your personality which may come from self-consciousness which you create in yourself by imagining or exaggerating to yourself some physical defect.

Q. "I am a short, stout man and would like you to give me exercises for reducing my abdomen, neck and face."

A. In order to reduce your face you must lose weight. You should lose it anyway, you know. You need to do so for abdominal reduction, too, although abdominal exercises will speed the loss in that measurement. Write for my exercise routine especially planned for men. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 20. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

DEAR ABBY

Dear Friends . . .

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am elderly now, but when I was a child all the clocks were stopped in the house when a person died. No one thought it peculiar. Why was this done? Do you, or perhaps any of your readers, recall anything like this? Or was it a local superstition? This has bothered me for years.

DEAR OBERLIN: I recall the same "superstition," but I have no idea where it originated or why. Now, I, too, am curious. Does anyone know?

DEAR ABBY: My mother is a seamstress and she sews for the public. She is making a dress for a woman who is very hard to please because she can't make up her mind about what she wants. The dress is for a wedding (her son is getting married) and it is all taffeta and lace and very fancy. This woman has changed her mind eight times and my mother has spent days on that one dress and she's not finished yet. My mother is a wonderful seamstress, if I have to say so myself, and every one of her other customers is very satisfied with her work. I am wondering just what my mother should charge a person like that?

DEAR DAUGHTER: Your mother should keep track of the hours she spends on that dress, and charge accordingly. A good seamstress will hardly pick up a needle for less than $2 an hour these days.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a man who is so disappointed because his first child was a girl that he won't lift a finger to help? He is also mad because the baby doesn't look like him. And I might as well tell you that he acts more single now than he did when he was single.

DISGUSTED WIFE: You have a baby girl AND a baby boy (your husband). Raising a husband takes patience, understanding and humility. I hope you are equal to the task.

DEAR ABBY: Today would be my ninth wedding anniversary if my husband were alive. I lost him 10 months ago at the age of 30.

I have read your column for years and am amazed at the petty things married people fight about. Our marriage wasn't perfect either, but since I lost my husband I have become a wiser person. My advice to married couples is to live each day as though it were going to be the last. Because sometimes it is.

Jo-Ann Thomson Wed At Evening Service

Bronze, pink and white piece. Her bouquet was of blue chrysanthemums with laurel and white carnations. A pink gown was worn by Miss Pat Raven, bridesmaid. Pink and white carnations were in her bouquet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Thomson of Stoba Lane, and Richard Allen Hansen, son of Aksel Hansen, Shelbourne Street, and the late Mrs. Hansen. Canon George Biddle conducted the double ceremony. Cousin of the bride, Mrs. A. McColm, sang the "Wedding Prayer," and Frederick Church was organist.

Petite bride entered church on the arm of her father. Her gown of nylon lace and net had a fitted bodice enhanced by a sweetheart neckline edged with sequins. Sleeves were lily point. Full skirt featured lace panels at sides, edged with ruffles extending back to form a slight bustle. A tulle of lace, pearls and sequins held her chapel length veil. She carried a cascade of white carnations and pink roses.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Kenneth Southey, wore a blue lace dress with matching veil head.

Donald Anderson was best man and ushers were Philip Norton, groom's uncle, and Dennis Haner.

Lounge of the Victoria Curling Club was setting for a reception. Three-tier cake was flanked by bowls of pink and white spray chrysanthemums. Paul Wells proposed the toast.

A beige-suit topped with matching coat was worn by the bride for a wedding trip to Vancouver and the mainland. Her velvet hat was in vivid shades of beige, green and bronze, and accessories were in olive tone. Corsage of bronze chrysanthemums completed the outfit.

Newlyweds will make their home at 2986 Glen Lake Road.

Sweden boasts Mrs. Agda Rosell, the only permanent woman head of a U.N. delegation. The best-known American lady delegate is Mrs. Oswald Lord, a regular at the United Nations year-round. Russia's alternate delegates include Mrs. Z. V. Mironova, a tower of a woman in mannish-tailored suits and hair drawn back Russian-style in a bun.

Women abound. But it takes a scorecard to tell those who are here on business. Said a willowy blonde who was wearing a startling white hat: "Oh, I'm just a housewife from Scarsdale. My Indian friend here got me in."

Swedish women are particularly interested in social and educational problems. Mrs. Onegay, a widow from Casablanca, joined the UN ladies a year ago. She already has been noticed by the head of the Soviet delegation.

She created a sensation in native Moroccan costume at her country's reception Wednesday night, and Nikita S. Krushchev told Moroccan crown prince Moulay Hasan "You should send her to us in Moscow—to be cultural at-tache."

Clever Woman Journalist From India Arrives in Canada on CWPC Scholarship

MONTREAL (CP)—Amita Malik, a petite and pretty Indian journalist who won a 10-month fellowship to study in Canada, arrived here Thursday night and provided some of her views on her homeland's recent development.

Stopping over on her flight to Ottawa, Mrs. Malik said in an interview she feels Indian women, recently granted equal rights with men, have become more modern than Indian men. "The men tend more toward conservatism... but not my husband, of course."

Mrs. Malik won a fellowship offered by the Canadian Women's Press Club, the first of its kind arranged by a Canadian group. The club will arrange accommodation for her with families in major cities across Canada as she works with various newspapers.

She will be in British Columbia in early summer next year and will spend some time in Victoria and on Vancouver Island.

TO WRITE ON CANADA

She is to write a series of articles on life in Canada for Indian newspapers.

A Hindu, Mrs. Malik married her Moslem husband, a station director for All India Radio, in 1946 during a period of violent conflict between the two faiths. She admits it was a "rather reckless thing to do" at that time but says "it has presented no problems since."

Women have definitely achieved emancipation in India now, she said.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Wallace Chin, aged 11, of San Francisco, Calif., for his question:

How Does the Koala Live in Australia?

The cuddly koalas in the San Francisco zoo take life easy, very easy. They live like the most pampered darlings in the world. In their native Australia, of course, koalas live in the wild. Here too they take life easy, very easy. For these fat, furry little fellows are among the laziest animals in the world.

Not so long ago, their laziness was almost their undoing. The early settlers of Australia fell in love with their woolly, ash-grey coats. In the year 1927 alone, more than two million of the pretty darlings were slaughtered to make fur coats, collars and even carriage rugs. It was very easy, much too easy, to catch the sleepy little characters. Now they are protected by law and no one dares to steal their silky fur coats.

Sad to say, their numbers have shrunk and today we find koalas only in a few areas from Queensland to Victoria. Here and there we find a family group of them in a grove of eucalyptus or blue gum trees. As a rule, a koala spends his entire life in the grove in which he was born. He spends his time high in the leafy branches, dining on the tenderest of the leaves. Between meals he sleeps and dozes. He often sleeps hanging upside down.

Though we often call him a koala bear, the little fellow is not related to Bruin. He is a marsupial or pouched animal. Fully grown, he may be two feet long and tip the scales at 30 pounds. He has a big black nose and a pair of sleepy button-black eyes. His big ears are fluffy and floppy and he always wears a puzzled expression on his face.

Baby Always Only Child

Junior, like the baby porcupine, is always an only child. At birth he is no wider than a pencil and only one inch long. He is placed at once in to mamma's fur-lined pouch, where he spends the first three to six months of his life without so much as a peek at the outside world.

At last the young koala is ready to make his debut. He makes the very daring journey up onto mama's back. There he clings with his four feet firmly grasping her thick, woolly fur. He gazes dreamily at the world. He learns to nibble a few leaves as mamma does. He dozes when she dozes. Months go by and Junior still clings to mamma's furry back. He grows almost as big as she. At the age of one year we still find him riding around on mamma's back.

Koalas are very gentle, placid characters and very loving with each other. The mothers are happy to feed their neighbors' babies and they never scrap or quarrel. Once in a while, however, a sleepy Papa Koala will become annoyed when a fat youngster climbs up onto his back. When captured, the koala is just as loving to his human foster parents. Needless to say, he becomes an ideal pet.

Andy sends a Hammond's International World Globe to David Koble, age nine, of Bartlesville, Okla., for his question:

Why is a mountain cold on a hot day?

The heat of a summer day comes from the sun, whose radiant energy pours forth across some 93 million miles. The journey takes about eight minutes. On the way, this energy has no heat and no color. When it crashes into the earth, it shows its rainbow colors and some of it becomes heat. Some objects cause it to give forth more heat than others.

On a summer day, the land heats up faster than the watery sea. The hot land and the warm sea heat up the air nearest the earth. Higher up, the air remains cool. Higher still, the air is cold. For the filmy atmosphere does not capture the sun's heat.

BOY MUSICIAN STILL CAN'T COLLECT FEE

TORONTO (CP)—Attila Galamb, six-year-old saxophone player who had to go to court before he could play at the Canadian National Exhibition, is having trouble collecting his fee.

Joseph Galamb said his son has not been paid the $750 owing him for grandstand appearances he made after Mr. Justice J. F. Donnelly ruled the Toronto Musicians' Union could not bar him from membership because of his age. Earlier the union has said the boy would have to pay a standby player because Attila was not a union member.

Hiram E. MacCallum, CNE general manager, said Attila's cheque is ready and waiting but "it's just a question of getting clearance from the Musicians' Union before he can get it."

But union president George Anderson said: "We have nothing to do with this."

"Mr. Galamb and the CNE have an agreement and I would suggest the CNE pay its bill."

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Things are grim here this week, but the laughs will go on. Our hero is Edward Spatz of the Hotel Shelbourne who, though forced to take in Fidel Castro, didn't like it and said so.

"Are you the manager of the hotel?" we asked him. "Manager!" he shouted. "I own the hotel. If I'd been the manager, I'd have quit yesterday!"

NY Weather Forekast: Terrific windstorm all week. Worse than Donna.

Jack Lemmon's voice had one of those "Some Like It Hot" wiggles in it when he phoned Temple Texas, "Darling," he said, "Can I borrow your white mink stole? Nobody in town recognizes me without one!"

Somebody in the Congo just cabled Mr. K. "Please send us more Communist agents. That last batch was delicious!" (via Sid Porcelain) ... Joe E. Lewis' s---tions at the Copacabana that "The one thing President Eisenhower would rather have than a hole-in-one is a hole in Khrushchev."

Ralph Bellamy told me his favorite Winston Churchill tale. W.C. had caught "State of the Nation," in which Bellamy, playing a presidential candidate, had a martini and a hamburger, then made a great speech. Churchill told reporters later, "I was amazed that anybody could make such a great speech on a hamburger and one martini!"

Betty Kean giggles about Jackie Gleason's "exercising" by golfing at Fred Waring's Shawnee Country Club. "He has a caddy tee the ball for him, and two caddies lift him in and out of his cart," she alleges. (She probably meant three caddies.)

Lillian Kramer, the Hotel Edison proprietress, is suffering a concussion after having crashed down some stone steps at the Waldorf while going to the beauty parlor. It was on a recent stormy day; she believes the steps were wet. She lay on the floor for an hour with nobody allowed to move her due to the concussion. Somewhat improved now, she says, "I still feel like I'm in mid-air."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL...

Lenore Lemmon flew home from Madrid to be with her mother Helen at her death. Mrs. Lemmon faced death as the late Wilson Mizner did; as she was sinking, she said to her daughter and a friend, "Why don't you go have a drink?" ... Harry Belafonte stole the show in Tel-Aviv from fellow-visitors George Jessel and Ziva Rodan. Harry took over a hotel party and gave the Israelis a folklore party.

EARL'S PEARLS: We just heard about this Hollywood couple that'll get an Alabama divorce as soon as its Mexican marriage is final.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Typographical error in a TV column: "Milton Berle's agents have made plans to return him to the air this fall."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: If Abe Lincoln was as honest as they say, how come he got so far in politics? —Tony Pettilio.

If at first you don't succeed, man, are you going to have plenty of company! ... That's earl, brother.

Apartment Rezoning Approved for James Bay

City council Thursday gave formal approval to a bylaw which will allow apartments up to 12 storeys high in three neighborhoods of James Bay. The final reading was given after one of the largest turnouts ever drawn by a public hearing gave its apparent endorsement to the step. About 60 persons filled spectator seats at the hearing. Only half a dozen addressed council and of these only one was opposed. The new zoning relaxes the existing regulations, which have kept apartments under five storeys high, in the three designated zones only.

NANAIMO COUNT OVER

Cameron Concedes Westwood Winner

A handshake closed the battle for Nanaimo's seat in the legislature Thursday with Recreation Minister Earle Westwood the winner by 51 votes.

'Green Belt' Parkland Area Suggested

A green belt of parkland should be created by Greater Victoria municipalities to link Mount Douglas Park with the Royal Oak Rithet Estate, Elk-Beaver Lakes and the Highlands, a planning official said Thursday night.

Capital Region Planning Board director Brahm Weisman outlined parks needs of the area to the Victoria Conservation Council.

He said the four municipalities should spend $3,000,000 to acquire 4,000 acres for parkland before it is developed privately and lost for all time.

CCFer Colin Cameron told the Times he does not think he will call for a full judicial recount.

"You won, congratulations," he told Mr. Westwood Thursday after a recheck into the validity of ballots cast in the Sept. 12 general election. Mr. Westwood had a lead of 112, Sept. 12; it was trimmed to 70 after absentee ballots were counted Monday, and it came down to 51 when 25 ballots were cast out Thursday.

Mr. Cameron said he does not still hold hopes of winning the seat. "I just expected to whittle down his lead a bit," he said.

The invalid ballots were mostly marked in pen. The Elections Act specifies black lead pencil.

FIVE-YEAR-OLD GIRL ELEVENTH POLIO VICTIM

A five-year-old girl from Yahk Thursday became the 11th British Columbian to die of polio this year. The girl died in hospital at Cranbrook. Total B.C. polio cases for the year to date is 148. Health officials say the danger is far from over yet. They expect October to bring more cases.

Tories Keep 2 Seats In Ontario Byelection

TORONTO (CP)—The progressive Conservatives retained seats in two Ontario by-elections Thursday, but the Liberal party picked up votes. Premier Frost said the victories were a vote of confidence for the Conservative party. Liberal leader Wintermeyer described the results as a trend towards the future success of his party.

Boxer's Brother Pleads Guilty To Manslaughter

PORTLAND (AP)—Paul Arnold Machen, 21-year-old brother of heavyweight boxing contender Eddie Machen, entered a surprise plea of guilty Thursday to a charge of manslaughter. He will be sentenced Monday.

Machen was accused of being a member of a gang of young Negroes who beat up several white men last April 3. One of the victims, Edward St. George, a 44-year-old farm worker, died from injuries suffered in the attack.

Long Service Career Ending

A man who has served the B.C. government longer than the lifetime of his minister retires today.

"You know, you were working for the government before I was born," Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi told Thomas F. Baxter Thursday.

Mr. Baxter retires at 5 p.m. today after 49 years and two months as a government employee.

Mr. Gagliardi admitted to being 47.

The highways minister paid tribute to the long record of service of Mr. Baxter at a ceremony in his office.

Gifts for Mr. Baxter at the ceremony included a gold watch, an electric drill and an electric kettle.

BOUQUET

Mrs. Baxter received a bouquet of flowers from the government.

Mr. Baxter, who lives at 916 Heywood, started as a railway clerk with the government in 1911.

For many years he handled subdivision applications for the public works department, and then switched to the same job for the highways department.

The price of plywood has increased at the manufacturers' level. While no one likes to pay more for materials, in this instance prices had fallen to a very low point. Virginia's 11 Husbands Paid Off Handsomely

CHICAGO (UPI) — FBI agents today arrested Virginia Shawn Debus, 32, on charges of collecting too many government subsistence cheques from too many of her 11 husbands at the same time.

The FBI said Virginia had collected $8,000 in the past three years. It took 11 months to catch up with her, the agents said.

Virginia was arraigned on charges of violating parole on a prison sentence for the same offense.

Virginia, then married to her eighth husband, James Martin McNeil, a navy man, was placed on five years' probation July 31, 1956, on charges she was receiving subsistence cheques from hubby No. 7, Donald Kechmark, another navy man, at that time.

Seven days later, she disappeared and married husbands 9, 10 and 11 — all navy men — to conceal her identity, agents said. Seven of her 11 husbands were servicemen, they said.

VIRGINIA SHAWN DEBUS ... preferred servicemen

As Virginia O. McNeil, she married Albert A. Peltier Aug. 7, 1956, in Las Vegas, Nev. Peltier now is stationed at Pearl Harbor, and she got $157.10 from him each month, according to federal records.

As Virginia Lejoy, she married Charles Dewger of Giles County, Tenn., Dec. 6, 1958, the record shows. Cheques of $137.10 from Dewger, a radio-man in Japan, were sent to her every month until they were stopped sometime last year.

Last New Year's Eve, she married Donald Debus, then a sailor at Winter Haven, Calif., and now stationed at Great Lakes, Ill. From him, she collected $157.10 per month.

Agents said she covered up the fact that she was receiving Peltier's cheque by having it sent to another address.

W. Germans Kill Trade Agreement

BONN (Reuters) — West Germany has decided to break off a trade agreement with Communist East Germany, a government spokesman announced today.

The action was ordered as a countermove to increasing pressure by the Communists against isolated West Berlin.

Government authorities said Bonn would withdraw the cancellation if the Communists take the heat off Berlin.

GUARANTEE

Felix von Eckardt, press spokesman for the Bonn government, said this meant the Communists would have to guarantee freedom of movement in and out of Berlin and within the city itself.

The East Germans have been restricting movement in Berlin, which lies 110 miles from the nearest point in West Germany, despite claims by Britain, France and the United States that they, with the Soviet Union, are the sole authorities over this phase of the city's life.

Today's action nullifies an agreement which provides for East-West trade totalling around 2,000,000,000 marks, about $470,000,000.

Von Eckardt told a press conference the Western allies had agreed to join in the trade embargo, provided a new contract is not negotiated by the end of this year.

Victoria's Birds Take To Buses

Victoria's famous seagull has found a new employer.

After 39 years' service to the publicity bureau it will now be "flown" on Vancouver Island Coach Lines coaches.

"All our coaches will be marked with the seagull and all our advertising, including Gray Line advertising, will embody the seagull," said Conway Parrott, general manager.

"Since the publicity bureau isn't using it any longer, we are glad to adopt the famous bird."

Tourist commissioner William Hawkins decided to drop the "Follow the Birds to Victoria" slogan and replace it with "Gateway to Canada's Treasure Island."

George Warren, the former commissioner, first put up the seagull in 1921 with the invitation "Follow the Birds to Victoria—More Sunshine Less Rain."

"The gull has served the Island well," Mr. Hawkins said, "but I thought it was time we had a change. However, I am glad it will still be in service."

BID TO FREE MOTHER

Frustrating Delays Met by Canadian

OTTAWA (CP)—Paul Engel, Regina, a body shop mechanic who is throwing his life savings into an effort to make a personal appeal to Premier Khrushchev for his mother, started with a day of frustration.

He flew from Regina Thursday with New York and Mr. K's presence as his ultimate goal, but planned to stop here to solicit Prime Minister Diefenbaker's personal support for his plea. He wants the Soviet government to allow his 54-year-old mother, a seamstress with a heart ailment, to leave the sub-Arctic city of Skytyrkar and come to Canada to join him.

Mr. Engel's plane could not land in Ottawa because of fog, and carried him on to Montreal. He came to Ottawa from Montreal by bus, and the vehicle developed a flat tire, causing further delay.

When he reached Ottawa, the prime minister's office advised him. Mr. Diefenbaker was in New York. When Mr. Engel said he would see Mr. Diefenbaker in New York, he was told "Mr. Diefenbaker would be back in Ottawa today."

A prime ministerial aide turned him over to an external affairs department attaché.

Mr. Engel was undecided whether to press on to New York immediately, or await Mr. Diefenbaker's return here late today.

Government officials said Mr. Engel has been trying for five years to get exit permission from Russia for his mother. The Canadian government cannot press the case since Mrs. Engel is a Russian citizen, but Canada will permit her entry if Russia will permit her exit.

Mobster Charged

NEW YORK (UPI) — West coast mobster Mickey Cohen faces arraignment today on charges of consorting with criminals on the sidewalks of New York. "I intend to sue," Cohen said. "I'm being treated the same as Khrushchev and Castro."

Pakistan plans to spend more than $1,000,000 in the next five years to stamp out malaria.

CASTRO GETS 'DEEP FREEZE'

NEW YORK (AP) — Fidel Castro's refrigerator and white mice are home again at last.

They got left behind Wednesday, along with 33 aides and a mountain of other baggage, because the plane which carried Castro back to Cuba couldn't accommodate all.

Another aircraft finished the job. On it went Castro's personal three-by-two-foot portable refrigerator and a collection of white mice.

Ships Sail Sans Cargo

LONDON (Reuters) — Several freighters cast off from wharves piled high with export goods and sailed away empty today from the strike-bound port of London.

A deadlock in the dispute between the port's 1,500 cargo clerks and dock authorities over recruitment gave little hope of their 11-day wildcat strike ending before the weekend.

The strike has made idle 20,000 stevedores.

MLAs Asked to Protect Professional Standards

The public is in danger of losing the protection which professional associations and standards have provided in the past, directors of Victoria Chamber of Commerce were told today.

"Many people do not appreciate the need for competent advice and treatment," said E. E. Pearlman, Q.C., presenting a resolution on behalf of the chamber's professional group. "They are not discerning enough to protect themselves from incompetent people. We were not specified in the resolution.

It said the prime function of professional associations has been to set up minimum standards of competency and to police the operations of its members in order to "eliminate those who do not live up to a high standard of ethical and professional conduct."

Not to depart from legislation which provides for the proper control of professional standards so as to provide maximum safeguards to the public.

DISCUSSION

The resolution was under discussion by the chamber directors at press time.

It urged that the legislature "resist any proposed legislation which would have a tendency to encroach upon or lower such professional standards."

The professional group, it was stated, had noted a tendency on the part of various provincial governments to allow "a gradual erosion of professional restrictions which were designed to protect the general public from unscrupulous and/or incompetent people operating in various fields."

NOT SPECIFIED

The "unscrupulous" and "incompetent" people referred to

It is understood that a bill passed by the B.C. legislature last session was part of the inspiration of the resolution.

This bill empowered certain dental mechanics who had been breaking the law for seven years by dealing directly with the public, without a dentist, to continue doing so on a legal basis.

But no member of the chamber would comment on this.

K Has New Korea Plan

ENDICOTT'S BELIEF

Germany Regaining Spirit of Nazis?

Persons "fleeing" from East Germany to West Germany are "about even" in numbers at the present time, Dr. James Endicott, vice-president of the World Peace Council, said here today.

He recently returned to Canada from a visit to Germany.

Many of those leaving the Western section of the city for the East are doing so to escape military conscription, he said.

Dr. Endicott said in the western sector "resurgence of Nazism is clear all over."

The West German republic has repudiated militarism, he stated, and this stand, to date, has been "a success."

Actually, the reports of persons leaving East Germany to live in the western section were exaggerated.

"There are 60,000 workers in the East who live in the West, and go back and forth every day," he said.

Dr. Endicott, a United Church minister in China for 22 years, predicted that the UN will recognize Red China and give it a seat there "in the next year, despite U.S. opposition."

He termed the current situation concerning Red China from the U.S. viewpoint as "ridiculous."

Earlier, he told an audience of 90 persons here Thursday that the U.S. might go to war to defend its China policy.

U.S. 'SPY PLANE' CHECKS ON NIKITA

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (UPI)—Nikita Khrushchev, who strongly objects to spy plane flights, can expect to have his movements closely watched this weekend from an American aircraft.

The Soviet premier thus far hasn't complained about the spying from a U.S. helicopter that hovered over his motorcade and repeatedly buzzed his estate hideaway here last weekend.

And he may not say anything about these overflights even if they are repeated—as expected—when he seeks seclusion at the 37-acre estate again this weekend. They are for his protection.

A big yellow H-21 Coast Guard helicopter carrying a three-man crew of State Department security agents checks Khrushchev's arrival and departure routes from the air.

The agents carried binoculars and a long leather case in the shape of a high-powered rifle. They refused to disclose the actual contents.

NICE, France (AP)—Brigitte Bardot's suicide attempt may have been foiled by the sleeping pills she took.

The film queen was found Wednesday night in a coma from an overdose of sleeping pills and with her wrists slashed. The first doctor to reach her said Thursday night she apparently yawned so sleepy from the pills that when she tried to wield the razor blade the cuts were only superficial.

The sexy actress was reported out of danger Thursday night by Dr. Jacques Namin, director of St. Francis neurological clinic. She was kept in isolation because "of nervous depression."

"I have good news," Dr. Namin told reporters this morning.

"Brigitte spent a good night. She slept well and all appears for the best."

NO NEWS OF CHARRIER

Namin said the star's parents, who were on their way from Paris, would be allowed to see her tonight. Asked about her husband, Jacques Charrier, the doctor said: "There is no news from Mr. Charrier."

Charrier also had been reported coming to Brigitte's side but was advised he would not be allowed to see her now. He was at the small village of Sare, in southwest France.

Brigitte had been in seclusion at the home of friends near Mentone following marital difficulties.

Brigitte was found lying in a friend's garden, her blonde hair flung across the stone lip of a well, a bloody razor blade nearby.

A doctor worked with a stomach pump, and she gradually recovered consciousness. Asked why she did it, she replied: "I don't care about anything."

It was her 26th birthday.

NEW YORK (AP)—There probably will be a host of marriages on CBS radio between now and Nov. 25.

That's the date the Columbia Broadcasting System and its affiliated stations have selected for the death of the so-called "soap opera."

The radio dramas which for years have been a daytime companion to the housewife are giving way to what CBS officials describe as a forward-looking step towards emphasis on news and special events.

"There'll be growls," John S. Hayes of WTOP, Washington, chairman of the board of directors of the CBS affiliates board, said Thursday.

"We'll try to end them happily. Everybody's gonna get married."

Among the old standbys scheduled to bow out are Ma Perkins, The Second Mrs. Burton, Whispering Streets, Couple Next Door and Right to Happiness.

Only two CBS radio dramas will be left after Nov. 25—Gunsmoke and Yours Truly, Johnny Dollar.

Continued life for this pair, said Hayes, was granted because most members of the board felt they are too popular to die.

CLERIC TAKES 'BY GUESS' AND BY GOD' CHANCE

His Pulpit's a Beverage Room

TORONTO (CP)—A United Church minister says he may have to live "by guess and by God" but he's going through with his plan to befriend people in Toronto beverage rooms.

Rev. Arthur Packham, 60, has left his United Church post at Stirling, near Belleville, to attempt to "bridge the gap that exists and is constantly widening between the church and people who frequent beverage rooms."

"I thought about doing it for a long time," he said in an interview Thursday. "But until now I hadn't the guts to do it. I'm not going to preach or tackle anybody. I've got no sort of hostility toward anybody and I'm not an inspector of moral manners or a reformer."

"I think the church is interested in what I'm doing—but I'm not presuming to represent any church. I just want to represent a kinder attitude to those who don't live on the same street as I, or live as I live."

He said that unless something is done to make beverage rooms and bars thought of as respectable, Canada is in for a great tragedy. By thinking persons who enter such places are not respectable "we are immediately handing them over to the least respectable of sorts."

"A man has every right to take a drink—he should be free to go to hell if he wants. I don't say I'll drink. But if I do that's my business and I don't have to apologize to anybody for it."

He called the attitude of temperance organizations "phony, self-righteous humbug."

"You can't single out one human weakness, I prefer a man to get drunk than to pull a fast one when selling a car. There are lots of people with troubles who don't come to church because the church doesn't give a hoot for people below a certain level."

"The church isn't interested in them. It's interested in running an organization."

He doesn't know how he'll go about carrying out his idea. The first step will be to go into a bar and ask "the manager and bartender to please the winter. If I show I can help people, maybe I'll get 'I shall have no income, but help. But I'm not asking for I've got enough to last through it."

AA (Oscar Class) BB (Worthwhile) B (For Rainy Days) A (Don't Miss) C (To put in time)

(A) "BELLS ARE RINGING" (Capitol)—If there had been few more memorable songs in MGM's adaptation of the Broadway hit, "The Bells Are Ringing" would deserve full marks.

Even as it stands, however, the filmization makes for 127 minutes of gay, sprightly entertainment and must be considered one more solid triumph for star Judy Holliday who is as clever a comedienne as any one alive.

Unlike, say, Lucille Ball, Miss Holliday does not resort to slapstick. Her comedy comes from within through an extraordinary "air" that causes one to chuckle even when she isn't doing anything especially extraordinary. And like all true clowns, male or female, her clownings impart with the laughter always a twinge or two of pathos.

Betty Comden and Adolph Green's screenplay opens with Miss Holliday being one of a trio of telephone operators working on a switchboard, called a "Susanswophone"—a service designed to wake clients up at a designated time, take calls for them when they are out and/or relay their messages to persons they can't reach.

In spite of her cousin's (Jean Stapleton) warnings not to become emotionally involved with the lives of her clients, there is something in Judy that can't resist. There is, for instance, a dentist who would rather be a song writer, an actor of the method school who can't get work. But, above all, there is Dean Martin, a successful playwright until his partner dies and then he loses faith in himself. She has already lost her heart to him even though he confides in her as "Mom."

Of course, she eventually meets with Martin and things are swinging gaily after that. She also meets others of her clients as well as the police who believe "Susanswophone" is a blind for a girlie-call service.

Although it is Miss Holliday's picture one can't overlook Martin whose personality always emerges warm and believable and his acting is becoming impressively better. Dore Clark is good as the police

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

1½-POUND BABY GIRL FIGHTING TO SURVIVE

HAMILTON (CP)—Doctors and nurses at the Mount Hamilton Hospital are fighting to save one of the smallest babies ever to be born here and live.

The little girl, named Camila by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Imre Almasi, weighed only one pound, eight ounces when she was born Sept. 18. Today, she weighs five ounces less (babies always lose weight after birth), and her condition is described as "fair."

Neutralists Ask Ike, K To Meet 'Face-to-Face'

Mac Will Fly To Washington For Conference

(Times News Services)

UNITED NATIONS — Five top neutralist countries today called upon President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to resume their personal diplomacy with a face-to-face conference.

Premier Jawaharlal Nehru of India, President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic, President Sukarno of Indonesia, President Tito of Yugoslavia and President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana submitted for immediate general assembly action a resolution asking for the meeting.

The move resulted from a "neutralist summit conference" held Thursday night at the Yugoslav Embassy in New York. It followed a personal appeal earlier this week from Nasser for the two men to meet and discuss disarmament.

The five neutralist leaders acted as the cold war impasse grew steadily worse.

A two-hour meeting Thursday night between British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev ended in complete deadlock.

The situation was so serious that Macmillan decided to fly to Washington this weekend for a conference with Eisenhower and Australian Prime Minister Robert Menzies on the Soviet's roughhouse tactics in the United Nations and to co-ordinate allied strategy for the fight ahead.

There were rumors Eisenhower might make a third visit to New York during the UN session but there still was no indication he would meet with Khrushchev. They have not met since May when Khrushchev torpedoed the Paris summit conference.

Macmillan and Khrushchev were reported not to have discussed a possible Eisenhower-Khrushchev meeting. Eisenhower has opposed such a meeting until Russia meets certain conditions but Khrushchev has indicated he would accept a meeting.

The five neutralist leaders submitted their resolution in a letter to assembly president Frederick H. Boland of Ireland and asked that he submit it to the world parliament "for immediate action."

Nikita Plays Host

NEW YORK (UPI)—Premier Nikita Khrushchev invited 20 Communist and neutralist leaders to his Park Avenue headquarters today for a luncheon expected to advance Russian arguments on Africa, disarmament and reorganization of the United Nations.

It was the first big social affair held by the Soviet leader since he arrived in New York and Russian sources said the lunch was more of a pleasant little get-together than a working meeting.

But the persons invited outside of the Communist bloc were leaders of nations Russia has been wooing in recent years in an effort to draw them closer to the Socialist camp.

The principal neutralists were Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India, President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic and President Tito of Yugoslavia. Western leaders were not invited.

The resolution declared that the assembly was deeply concerned with the deterioration in international relations which threatens the world with grave consequences and that the world expected the assembly to assist in easing world tension.

Then it "requests, as a first step, the President of the United States of America and the chairman of the council of ministers of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics to renew contacts, interrupted recently, so that their declared willingness to find solutions of the outstanding problems by negotiation may be progressively implemented."

No Thought of Ike, Nikita Meeting

Prime Minister Macmillan's two-man summit meeting with Khrushchev Thursday night lasted for more than two hours and ended in what appeared to be a complete deadlock between East and West.

Khrushchev and Macmillan did agree to "think over" the major problems they discussed and to meet again.

Macmillan, who will be accompanied to Washington by British Foreign Secretary Lord Home, was expected to discuss in detail his conversation with Khrushchev and to co-ordinate Anglo-American strategy for the remainder of the United Nations sessions.

There was no thought of an attempt by Macmillan to bring Eisenhower and Khrushchev together.

The suave, silver-haired British leader did not appear on the surface to have been upset by Thursday's shouting, table-thumping interruptions by Khrushchev during Macmillan's UN address.

But he was grave and emerged without a word after his conference with Khrushchev Thursday night.

A British foreign office spokesman revealed the two men had made no progress on the three major problems they discussed—Berlin, disarmament or the Russian call for dismissal of UN secretary-general Dag Hammarskjöld.

"Each side expressed its views and held to them," the spokesman said.

Khrushchev Backs Down?

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Indian correspondents at the United Nations today quoted "highly-placed sources" as saying Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev does not intend to press his demand for the abolition of the post of UN secretary-general.

The Times of India said it was "India's impression, gained after painstaking exploration, that Mr. Khrushchev will not raise the question of changes in the United Nations structure formally."

Similar reports appeared in other newspapers.

RED AGENTS STILL ACTIVE SAYS MOBUTU

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP)—Congo strongman Col. Joseph Mobutu charged today that Communist agents are continuing clandestine operations here two weeks after they were supposedly ejected from the country.

Mobutu said that Thursday night his men seized a powerful radio transmitter and receiver plus a stock of ammunition in the closed Czechoslovak embassy.

U.S. Plans 'Freeze' On Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is considering the use of economic sanctions in its deepening conflict with the Cuban government of Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

These plans, calling for export controls on a limited number of items, may follow a U.S. decision Thursday night to close down the $110,000,000 nickel processing plant it owns and operates in Cuba's Oriente Province. There is no direct relation between the two moves.

The state department said the plant's operation has been harassed by the Castro regime and subjected to what it called confiscatory taxes due to go into effect Saturday. The Cuban government rejected a U.S. offer to pay "a reasonable tax" on nickel shipments from the plant, the department said.

YANKES COME HOME

There were these other developments:

1. The state department said all American men in Cuba are being advised to send their wives and children back to the United States to avoid harassment by Cuban authorities.

2. Castro made a TV appearance in Cuba and said U.S. citizens in Cuba have nothing to fear. "North American citizens can count on all guarantees and security," he said.

3. The Castro government, in a new diplomatic rebuff, refused to accept a U.S. note protesting nationalization of American-owned banks in Cuba.

Tentative plans for the controls, which may be imposed in the near future, have been worked out by the state and commerce departments.

MAY AFFECT CHEMICALS

While details have not been disclosed, indications are that machinery for oil refineries and chemicals used in the refining process will be brought under the export control system.

Such actions would hamper Cuba's operation of U.S. oil refineries it has seized and is using to refine crude oil obtained from Russia. Oil experts say Russia cannot provide replacement parts for the American-built machinery.

Under the Export Control Act of 1949, President Eisenhower has broad authority to prohibit or curtail shipments of commodities to any foreign country.

SIDES WITH KHRUSHCHEV

'Life or Death' For UN—Sukarno

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — President Sukarno of Indonesia today urged reorganization of the United Nations "to reflect the true position of our present world."

"This question is urgent," Sukarno told the General Assembly.

"It may be a matter of life or death for the United Nations. It is essential that the distribution of seats in the Security Council and other bodies and agencies be revised. I am not thinking in this matter in terms of bloc votes, but I am thinking of the urgency that the charter of the United Nations, of the United Nations bodies, and its secretariat should all reflect the true position of our present world."

The Indonesian president was sympathetic to views expressed to the assembly earlier by Premier Khrushchev and in effect endorsed them. Khrushchev has recommended the secretary-general's post be held by three men—one each from the Western, neutralist and Communist nations.

ROME (Reuters)—Ships, planes and land rescue parties searched today for a United Arab Republic Viscount airliner with 23 persons aboard.

Looting In Nigeria

LAGOS, Nigeria (UPI) — Reports of fierce fighting between rival political factions in the north today cast a shadow over Nigeria on the eve of its independence from Britain.

Nigeria will become the 16th African state this year to achieve independence when 60 years of British rule ends Saturday.

Reports from Benue province in northern Nigeria—a Moslem stronghold—said that white persons were not involved in the fighting which erupted last month between supporters of the Action Group-Bornu Youth Movement Alliance and the ruling Northern People's Congress Party.

At least 29 persons have been killed in clashes in the remote Wukari and Tive districts, and marauding bands were reported burning and looting villages Thursday in spite of police claims that the situation was "quiet."

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's 1960 wheat crop was estimated at 490,532,000 bushels by the bureau of statistics today, an upward revision of 18,000,000 bushels from last month's forecast due to improved prospects on the prairies. The barley wheat crop was estimated at 473,000,000 bushels.

3 Aboard Half Ship

IJMUUDEN, Holland (UPI) —Atlantic shipping was alerted today to be on the lookout for half of a tanker floating aimlessly with three crewmen aboard. It has been nearly two weeks since the aft half of the African Queen was sighted and it was feared the three men aboard may be running low on food and water.

Safe Theft Charge

EDMONTON (CP) —Four men were arrested and charged by RCMP today in connection with the theft of a safe containing $57,000 from the provincial Legislative Building. Police said they were still looking for the safe and its contents.

LONDON (UPI)—Communist nations have set up a high court of inquiry to examine the conflict between the Soviet Union and Communist China, Iron Curtain sources disclosed today.

The sources said its findings may either mend or break completely the ideological split between Peking and the rest of the Communist world.

TOP MAN

The Moscow representative is no less than chief theoretician, Mikhail Suslov, a member of the Soviet Communist Party Presidium and one of the top Kremlin leaders.

The court is to report its findings to a Communist summit meeting Nov. 7 in Moscow, and recommend whether the Moscow or Peking policy line is to prevail.

NATION-WIDE POLL

Liberals Overtake Tories

VANCOUVER — For the first time since the Tories took over the government in 1957, the Liberal party has stepped ahead of the Conservatives in the popular vote.

According to the Province, the latest standing reported by the nation-wide Gallup Poll gives the Liberals 43 per cent of the vote, compared with 38 per cent for Prime Minister Diefenbaker's Tories. The CCF climbed to 12 per cent from nine while others—including Social Credit—have risen to seven per cent from three.

Conservative support has fallen off badly in Quebec since the defeat of the Union Nationale by the Liberals in June.

While the Liberals appear to have won Quebec back, the Conservatives hold a narrow edge in other parts of Canada the survey reports.

The Diefenbaker forces are shown at 44 per cent in Ontario, against 42 per cent for the Liberals; at 34 per cent in the West, compared with 31 per cent for the Liberals; and at 49 per cent in the Maritimes, where the Liberals are given 44 per cent.

Some of the Liberals' gains are attributed to the CCF's rise in popularity in the West.

Diefenbaker Salutes Freedom for Nigeria

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today Nigeria can pattern its independent future in the Commonwealth after Canada.

His statement, quoting Nigerian independence Saturday was released by his office today, and addressed to the Nigerian people.

"The people of Canada feel a special affinity to Nigerians on this great day of the achievement of independence for, as you know, Canada was the first member of what is now the Commonwealth to demonstrate that both independence and a close association with the Commonwealth can be, and has been, happily maintained," he said.

"Canadians have welcomed the contacts that have already existed between our countries. We feel that Nigerians are our friends and my hope is that the contacts between us will multiply and that your friendship will grow in the years to come."

"It is with confidence in our increasing friendship and understanding, too, that I now, speaking for all Canadians, welcome you into a Commonwealth brotherhood of nations. May prosperity and success be yours always."

'Full Speed Ahead' Plan For Columbia Project

B.C. Hydro chairman Dr. H. L. Keenleyside said today.

A progress report on negotiations was made to Ottawa and B.C. this week, and engineers are working on details of development approved by Canadian and U.S. officials.

Initial plans of B.C. Hydro are expected to include dams on the Arrow Lakes and at Mica Creek, to cost about $300,000,000.

Dr. Keenleyside said the first step to be taken by the public-owned utility will be to make application for title for portions of the river involved, and for a water licence.

Public hearings will be held to iron out local objections to the plans, he said, and may start in two months.

After these are cleared away, and a water licence granted, the project will go back to the international level for a treaty, he said.

"We are gearing things so there will be no delay," he said.

Details regarding which part of the river will be developed first, and who will pay for it, have not yet been disclosed.

FOUR LANES FORECAST FOR PAT BAY NEXT YEAR

Highways Minister Gagliardi said Thursday Pat Bay Highway will probably get four lanes next year. He said final decision on the project and its timing will depend on a thorough traffic survey being undertaken by his department. He expects a report soon. Traffic boomed between Victoria and Swartz Bay this summer after the government opened its new ferry service to Tsawwassen. Mr. Gagliardi said the highway would be widened as soon as traffic volume justifies the action. "It now appears it is at or near that level."

Pulp Mill Mooted For Union Bay

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadian Collieries Resources Ltd. is seriously considering construction of a pulp mill at Union Bay, president Norman R. Whittall said Thursday. He said the company has three or four months of studies to complete before it can make a definite decision. He said the mill would not cost more than $20,000,000.

He worked for Dunlop Tire in Toronto, and had a managerial post with Canadian Marconi in Montreal prior to starting a business in Weston with his father in 1942. He joined the church in 1942, then in 1955 decided to make the ministry his full-time career and attended Toronto Bible College with his wife. He was graduated in 1958, received his theology degree in 1959, and has since studied at UBC.

CHEMAINUS VOLUNTEERS LEAD WAY Multi-Purpose Fire Truck First of Kind On Island

CHEMAINUS — Something new in volunteer fire department protection arrived here this week in the form of a multi-purpose fire-fighting and rescue truck, first of its type on Vancouver Island. It was custom built to rigid specifications laid down by Fire Chief Ray Millard and his planning staff, and cost $7,107. Funds were raised through a special bylaw. Built like a big bread wagon, the truck is designed to fulfill a number of fire-fighting and rescue duties. A series of large compartments along both sides of the five-ton truck carry such equipment as smoke ejectors, portable lighting plant, breathing apparatus, ropes, salvage and rescue equipment, including gear for frogmen, portable pump-jack, and tarpaulins. It carries a heavy duty front-end winch. FOR CASUALTIES In addition to its fire-fighting duties, the truck will work with the local ambulance. It is designed for casualty accommodation in case of serious highway or waterfront accidents. Rated among the best volunteer brigades in B.C., the Chemainus department also operates two fire trucks, one trailer pump unit, and the ambulance. To accommodate the new truck and give the growing department more room for training, a $36,593 addition to the fire hall now is in the process of being completed. SKIN DIVERS This truck project is not the first innovation credited to the Chemainus fire department, since it was the first on Vancouver Island to train a team of skin diving specialists for rescue work as an integral part of the brigade. It's expected to run from Patricia Bay to Cherry Point on the west side to serve the Duncan-Cowichan area. Residents of that area want a closer link to the Saanich Peninsula and the new government ferry service at Swartz Bay.

MILL BAY ROUTE SHIFT IN SPRING

The Mill Bay ferry route will not be re-located until Spring, Highways Minister Gagliardi said Thursday. He said the route will be shifted north, but sites for the terminals either side of Saanich Inlet have not been selected.

Residents Petition For New Hydrants

(From Duncan Bureau) NORTH COWICHAN — A petition from 20 Chemainus residents asking for installation of hydrants on View and Douglas Streets, was referred this week by North Cowichan council to the council fire committee. Petitioners claimed fire protection in the area is "far from adequate." Hydrants cost $250 each, and council suggested installation might be scheduled for early next year. Council approved a grant of $25 to help defray expenses of the Central Vancouver Island Union Board of Health. "This is not to be considered as an annual grant," said Coun. W. T. Bowles. "We would prefer them to include it in their budget."

MONTE ROBERTS

The trouble with me is, I never seem to be around when I'm needed.

For instance, I should have been around during the great Captain Discovery controversy.

You remember the Captain Discovery controversy? There was poor old Bill Hawkins, all alone, calling out in a loud, keening voice: Yes, Virginia, there is a Captain Discovery.

If only I had been around at the time, I could have resolved the whole problem by explaining that Captain Discovery is simply the New Canadian version of the ancient Kwakiutl Indian phrase "Niatpac Yrevocsid."

Meaning, of course, in free translation, "Land of the Sky Blue Waters."

And I wish I had been around when John Coppinger sent out the clarion call for members to join the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Seagulls.

If I had been around, I would have been a charter member.

In my time, I have known many seagulls, and I have admired each and every one of them.

I am all for preserving and encouraging seagulls.

I am gullible that way.

Especially I wish I had been around when Smoky the Cat, the Oak Bay feline who is faced with unemployment due to technological progress, was threatened with eviction, loss of gainful work, and general defamation of character.

I would have dearly loved to rush to the side of Smoky the Cat, tell him how sanitary he was, offer him all the help within my power, and receive, in return, the customary cat expression of gratitude.

Namely, a sharp bite on the left ankle.

I also wish I had been around when the Oak Bay High School students were confronted with the devastating news about parking.

I really mean, no parking.

Things have come to a pretty pass when a young man can't find space to park his car outside his very own school.

The least the authorities could do is, remove the teachers' bicycle racks to make room for the students' cars.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

A sunny Saturday, and "mostly sunny" day Sunday were predicted for the weekend by weatherman William Mackie.

"Stormy weather in the Gulf of Alaska may give us some high cloud Sunday," he said, "but otherwise the day will be pleasant."

Skies will be clear tonight, and the thermometer will drop to a minimum of 42 degrees in colder spots, but will rise to a balmy maximum Saturday of 72 degrees.

Adam Bell of Victoria, formerly B.C. deputy minister of labor, today was named an honorary president of the Canadian Association of Administrators of Labor Legislation.

The association closed its conference at the Empress Hotel today.

Doug Crofford, Regina, will speak at a public meeting under auspices of the Baha'is of Canada in the club room of the YWCA tonight at 8. Mr. Crofford is a member of Kiwanis International.

Mrs. Hendrika Voorstius, one of 24 new Canadians sworn in at Victoria court house Thursday, comes from Holland — not Austria, as stated in the Times.

George Rowbottom, 85 Cadillac Street, was fined $50 in city police court today for making false statements to obtain unemployment insurance benefits.

Victoria's civic voters list today appeared headed for a drop of about 600 names.

With deadline for new registrations and confirmation of last year's tenant and resident electors' registrations set for 5 p.m., only a trickle of persons were visiting City Hall to get on the list.

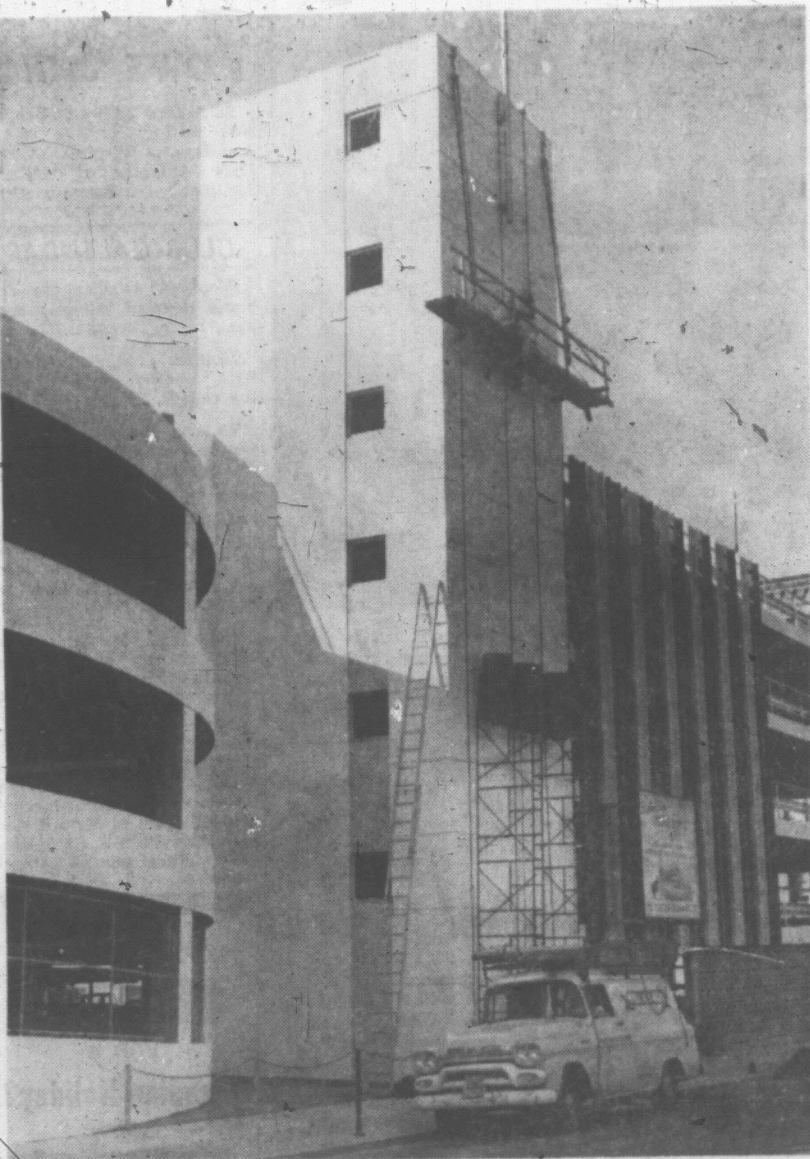

GOVERNMENT'S NEWEST FERRY TO INCLUDE IMPROVEMENTS

B.C.'s new ferry will be essentially the same as its two sister ships, Premier Bennett said today.

He said the Toll Authority which runs the Swartz Bay to Tsawwassen service is now at work on the plans.

"They will make any improvements necessary," he said. Tender will be called "at the earliest possible moment."

Mr. Bennett said this might be in about 30 days. The ferry is expected in service in 1962.

THE CHANGING FACE OF DOWNTOWN VICTORIA

A boom year in large building construction is changing the face of Victoria.

Three of the major projects that will go a long way towards setting a record for construction totals this year are shown in the photos above.

Together they add up to $2,860,000 in capital construction.

OPEN SATURDAY

Immediate attention is focused on the modernistic nine-level parking garage in the centre which is expected to go into limited operation Saturday for T. Eaton Co. customers.

The $500,000 project, built by Farmer Construction, will go into full operation within 30 days—providing more than 400 parking spaces which is expected to see a turnover of 2,000 cars daily.

The spanking new structure, at Gordon and Broughton, will be officially opened after a passenger elevator installation is completed.

75-Year-Old Man Missing in Woods

Duncan RCMP today were conducting a search in the Copper Canyon area west of Chemainus for Albert Hankins, 75, of Gibbons Road, Duncan, who left his home two days ago on a hunting trip and has not been seen since. He was carrying a rifle.

Photo at right shows the maze of beams and girders that will be fashioned into a steel skeleton for the new Law Courts building that will cost about $2,000,000 by the time it is finished.

Contract for erecting the structure is held by Luney Brothers and Hamilton, which also dug the excavation for the public building at Blanshard and Burdett, where the city's first underground parking lot will go into operation when the structure is opened.

Battle of Signs Rages at City Hall

Sharp conflict broke out today over a proposal to ban all projecting signs from the heart of Victoria's downtown business district.

The three-member public works committee expressed grave misgivings over the plan.

'Killing' Threat Alleged

A Saanich man who pleaded guilty to carrying a concealed 22 automatic pistol was remanded until next Thursday for sentence after a young woman testified in city police court today that he threatened to "kill" someone.

Magistrate William Ostler also ordered a probation officer's report on Frederick G. Bradstock, 1071 Chesterfield.

Miss Evelyn Norris, 2312 Wharf, told the court that until recently she went out with Bradstock.

She said when she started to go out with another man Bradstock continually kept bothering and pestering her.

On one occasion, she said, Bradstock told her that "if this fellow picks me up, someone was going to get killed."

Stolen Stole Brings Year Jail Term

Pleading guilty to theft of a $600 blue sapphire mink stole, Oswald Critch, 47, no fixed address, was sentenced to one year in jail in city police court today.

The stole, owned by Mrs. J. E. Burke, 644 Baker Street, was stolen Thursday from a cloakroom at the Knights of Pythias Hall, 723 Cormorant.

It was recovered from Critch's room in a downtown hotel.

The court was informed that Critch has a long criminal record.

Nation's Attitude Reflected By Changing Architecture Style

By TONY DICKASON

Social structures are reflected in building structures. This is the belief of Dr. D. E. Alcorn, head of the Royal Jubilee Hospital department of psychiatry.

He referred specifically to Russia which he recently visited for a week while on a tour of the continent and attendance at World Federation of Mental Health in Edinburgh.

Buildings in Moscow are "ornate," said the doctor—his hobby is architecture.

"This means that the government in power is showing how grand it (the government) is," he said.

Simplicity and functionalism is the first phase of architectural development in society; and this generally happens during a period of social turmoil and development.

Then comes the "ornate" phase when the government in power has achieved success and acceptance by the people.

Next step, also reflecting the social pattern is the "restraint and refinement" period, sometimes associated with social deterioration.

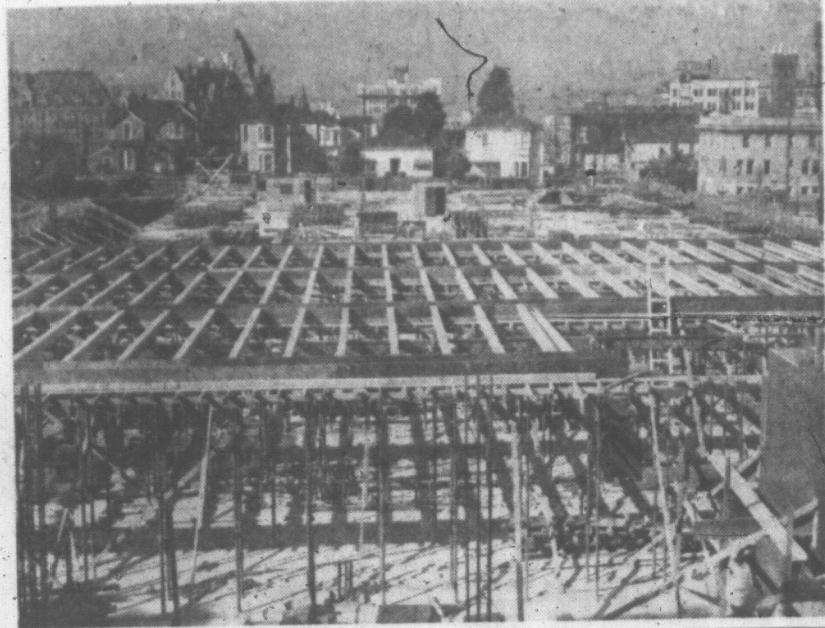

Russia today is in the middle bracket, the doctor stated.

"They feel they have achieved something and want to show it to themselves and the world."

Russia now has 5,000 psychiatrists "and they intend to increase this number."

He said the field of mental health in the Soviet was undergoing a development process, but was still behind the standards it should have achieved.

Dr. Alcorn spent six weeks on his tour.

Premier to N.Y. For Investments

Premier Bennett takes off for New York next week to continue his quest for investments in B.C.

He said he will fly east Tuesday and may not return to the Capital until after the federal-provincial fiscal talks at the end of October.

The premier told a press conference today he is not going east to borrow money.

"We don't need any loans," he said.

"AND THINGS LIKE THAT"

"From time to time we may act as fiscal agents for the power commission and things like that."

He said he was more interested in attracting industry and investment in the province.

"You need to invest thousands of dollars for every job you create."

He said he hoped his visit would result in more employment in the province.

WON'T BE STAMPEDED

Premier Bennett still has not decided on his cabinet changes.

He told a press conference today "it takes time" to decide what to do about the defeat of Labor Minister Wicks and Agriculture Minister Steacy in the Sept. 12 election.

He gave no hint of his plans, or when he might shuffle the cabinet ranks.

However, he said, he "won't be stampeded."

Duncan Man 'Holding Own' After Crash

A Duncan man critically injured in a highway crash near Chemainus River Thursday night was reported at press time today to be "holding his own" in Chemainus Hospital.

James Renema, 20, driver of a northbound car, suffered skull and leg fractures when he collided head-on with a car driven by Douglas Williams, also of Duncan. Mr. Williams, who suffered cuts about the face, was reported in satisfactory condition.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: A Stephen Henry Michaud, 2394 Trans-Canada Highway, $30, careless driving.

Clifford Ball, 110 Medina Street, $15, no B.C. driver's licence; $15, no current B.C. licence plate.

Charles Meade Day, 2295 Lincoln Road, $10, failing to obey sign on road.

MENTAL OBSERVATION ORDERED IN ATTEMPTED MURDER CHARGE

Facing a charge of attempted murder, Joseph Altorjai, 1308 Douglas, was remanded in city police court today until Oct. 11 for medical observation at the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Prosecutor T. P. O'Grady told the court there was evidence that Altorjai might be mentally ill.

The accused was charged with attempted murder Thursday after James Cameron, 824 Broughton, laid a complaint with police that he was struck on the arm by a man wielding an axe in the Melrose Cafe on Yates Street.

FOR AND AGAINST

By DON INGHAM

Condemnation of provincial game branch hunting policy, and a spirited defence by a game official, today boiled up in the wake of an announcement that city sportsman Ron Page had shot a California bighorn sheep in the Princeton-Keremeos area a week ago.

Root of the objections was that the herd consists of only 300 animals, and a three-day season was allowed. During that season six of the animals were shot.

J. H. C. Palmer, 2349 Sooke Road, a conservationist, admitted his aversion to shooting, but still maintained that it is harmful to allow an open season on "such splendid animals."

"It's time this whole subject was put before the public in a rational manner," he said. "It is entirely wrong for us to hunt the way we do."

He also condemned trophy hunting, claiming that it removes the best of the breeding stock in a herd and leaves smaller and poorer animals.

"Natural predators, like cougars, prey on the weakest animals, but a man with a gun can take the best," he said. "We know that too many deer, for instance, will overbrowse an area, but it seems contrary always to kill the best specimens."

DRAWING CARD

A. R. Davidson, 825 Monterey, another conservationist, said wild life is a drawing card for tourists and other visitors, and that such small herds of sheep should not be hunted.

"The game branch should use more discretion," he said, "but hunters constitute a powerful minority which is able to force things on the government."

Inspector Robert Sinclair of the game branch gave assurance today that there is no fear of sheep herds being depleted.

"Our game biologists make careful counts of sheep in each area, and relate the season to the size of the herd," he said. "Other areas had two-day seasons, and another year there may be no shooting allowed at all, depending on how the sheep fared through the winter."

DEDICATED MEN

"Our game biologists are dedicated men who will not allow animals to become extinct," he said.

The country, hunted by Mr. Page has only two access roads, he said, and game wardens patrolled both during the season.

"They knew every hunter in the field, and knew exactly how many sheep were killed," Inspector Sinclair said. "Ron Page worked hard for the one sheep he was allowed to shoot. He went into country reached only by horseback, and far beyond that seen by any tourist or visitor."

Triplet Birth At Duncan

Triplets—two boys and a girl—were born today to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ball at King's Daughters' Hospital in Duncan.

The multiple birth was no surprise although Mr. Ball, who works at the Crofton pulp mill, admitted he has been "very nervous."

Mrs. Ball is in good health. They have two other children, aged 10 and 13 years.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. What makes the earth go around? D.H.

A. It is still only a theory, but some scientists believe whirling dust in space was pushed together by remote gravitational forces of stars. The dust compacted to form the sun and a surrounding disc of dust. Turbulence in the rotating disc caused eddies to form which in turn condensed into the planets, like Earth. So we are still spinning from this original turbulence.

Q. Please give a brief outline of Rf. Hon. Arthur Meighen? T.R.

A. Born at Anderson, Ont., June 16, 1874, he was a member of Commons, 1908-21 and 1922-26; served as solicitor-general (1913); secretary of state for Canada and mines minister (1917); minister of the interior and Indian affairs head (1917); member of the war cabinet (1918) and was prime minister 1920-21, and 1926. He died Aug. 5 this year.

CHEK-TV Cleared by Board

OTTAWA (CP)—Television interference recently caused in Vancouver by the power increase of station CHEK-TV, Victoria is there to stay—unless TV viewers themselves spend the money to correct it.

The Board of Broadcast Governors, in a statement today following a Sept. 15 hearing of complaints in Vancouver, wrote off the technical interference as "a normal state of affairs" in any area getting new or more powerful TV stations.

Missing Cruiser Found Wrecked

Wreckage of a cruiser seen five days ago on the west shore of Ozeite Island, off the Washington shore 20 miles south of Cape Flattery, has been identified tentatively as that of the missing Victoria cruiser St. Roch.

Owner Gordon Massey was in Neah Bay today to make positive identification of a skull found in the vicinity, and believed from the vessel. It was stolen Sept. 22.

U.S. Plans
'Freeze'
On Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is considering the use of economic sanctions to freeze the Cuban government of Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

These plans, calling for export controls on a limited number of items, may follow a U.S. decision Thursday night to close down the $110,000,000 nickel processing plant it owns and operates in Cuba's Oriente Province. There is no direct relation between the two moves.

The state department said the plant's operation has been harassed by the Castro regime and subjected to what it called confiscatory taxes due to go into effect Saturday. The Cuban government rejected a U.S. offer to pay "a reasonable tax" on nickel shipments from the plant, the department said.

YANKS COME HOME

There were these other developments:

1. The state department said all American men in Cuba are being advised to send their wives and children back to the United States to avoid harassment by Cuban authorities.

2. Castro made a TV appearance in Cuba and said U.S. citizens in Cuba have nothing to fear. "North American citizens can count on all guarantees and security," he said.

3. The Castro government, in a new diplomatic rebuff, refused to accept a U.S. note protesting nationalization of American-owned banks in Cuba.

Tentative plans for the controls, which may be imposed in the near future, have been worked out by the state and commerce departments.

While details have not been disclosed, indications are that machinery for oil refineries and chemicals used in the refining process will be brought under the export control system.

Such actions would hamper Cuba's operation of U.S. oil refineries it has seized and is using to refine crude oil obtained from Russia. Oil experts say Russia cannot provide replacement parts for the American-built machinery.

Under the Export Control Act of 1949, President Eisenhower has broad authority to prohibit or curtail shipments of commodities to any foreign country.

High Court of Inquiry
On Russia-China Rift

LONDON (UPI)—Communist nations have set up a high court of inquiry to examine the conflict between the Soviet Union and Communist China, Iron Curtain sources disclosed today.

The sources said its findings may either mend or break completely the ideological split between Peking and the rest of the Communist world.

They said the investigating commission—a sort of Communist world high court—is comprised of top representatives of the Red camp, excluding renegade Yugoslavia.

The Moscow representative is no less than chief theoretician Mikhail Suslov, a member of the Soviet Communist

Looting
In Nigeria

LAGOS, Nigeria (UPI)—Reports of fierce fighting between rival political factions in the north today cast a shadow over Nigeria on the eve of its independence from Britain.

Nigeria will become the 16th African state this year to achieve independence when 60 years of British rule ends Saturday.

Reports from Benue province in northern Nigeria—a Moslem stronghold—said that white persons were not involved in the fighting which erupted last month between supporters of the Action Group-Bornu Youth Movement Alliance and the ruling Northern People's Congress Party.

At least 29 persons have been killed in clashes in the remote Wukari and Tive districts, and marauding bands were reported burning and looting villages Thursday in spite of police claims that the situation was "quiet."

Cold War Crisis
Grows Worse

(Times News Services)

UNITED NATIONS—Five top neutralist countries today called upon President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to resume their personal diplomacy with a face-to-face conference.

Premier Jawaharlal Nehru of India, President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic, President Sukarno of Indonesia, President Tito of Yugoslavia and President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana submitted for immediate general assembly action a resolution asking for the meeting.

The move resulted from a "neutralist" summit conference held Thursday night at the Yugoslav Embassy in New York. It followed a personal appeal earlier this week from Nasser for the two men to meet and discuss disarmament.

The five neutralist leaders acted as the cold war impasse grew steadily worse.

A two-hour meeting Thursday night between British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev ended in complete deadlock.

The situation was so serious that Macmillan decided to fly to Washington this weekend for a conference with Eisenhower and Australian Prime Minister Robert Menzies on the Soviet's roughhouse tactics in the United Nations and to co-ordinate allied strategy for the fight ahead.

There were rumors Eisenhower might make a third visit to New York during the UN session but there still was no indication he would meet with Khrushchev. They have not met since May when Khrushchev torpedoed the Paris summit conference.

Macmillan and Khrushchev were reported not to have discussed a possible Eisenhower-Khrushchev meeting. Eisenhower has opposed such a meeting until Russia meets certain conditions but Khrushchev has indicated he would accept a meeting.

The five neutralist leaders submitted their resolution in a letter to assembly president Frederick H. Boland of Ireland and asked that he submit it to the world parliament "for immediate action."

Nikita Plays
Host

NEW YORK (UPI)—Premier Nikita Khrushchev invited Communist and neutralist leaders to his Park Avenue headquarters today for a luncheon expected to advance Russian arguments on Africa, disarmament and reorganization of the United Nations.

It was the first big social affair held by the Soviet leader since he arrived in New York and Russian sources said the lunch was more of a pleasant little get-together than a working meeting.

But the persons invited outside of the Communist bloc were leaders of nations Russia has been wooing in recent years in an effort to draw them closer to the Socialist camp.

The principal neutralists were Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India, President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic and President Tito of Yugoslavia. Western leaders were not invited.

The resolution declared that the assembly was deeply concerned with the deterioration in international relations which threatens the world with grave consequences and that the world expected the assembly to assist in easing world tension.

Then it "requests, as a first step, the President of the United States of America and the chairman of the council of ministers of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics to renew their contacts, interrupted recently, so that their declared willingness to find solutions of the outstanding problems by negotiation may be progressively implemented."

No Thought of Ike, Nikita Meeting

Prime Minister Macmillan's two-man summit meeting with Khrushchev Thursday night lasted for more than two hours and ended in what appeared to be a complete deadlock between East and West.

Khrushchev and Macmillan did agree to "think over" the major problems they discussed and to meet again.

Macmillan, who will be accompanied to Washington by British Foreign Secretary Lord Home, was expected to discuss Continued on Page 2

SIDES WITH KHRUSHCHEV

'Life or Death'
For UN—Sukarno

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—President Sukarno of Indonesia today urged reorganization of the United Nations "to reflect the true position of our present world."

"This question is urgent," Sukarno told the General Assembly. "It may be a matter of life or death for the United Nations. It is essential that the distribution of seats in the Security Council and other bodies and agencies be revised. I am not thinking in this matter in terms of bloc votes, but I am thinking of the urgency that the charter of the United Nations, of the United Nations bodies, and its secretariat should all reflect the true position of our present world."

The Indonesian president was sympathetic to views expressed to the assembly earlier by Premier Khrushchev and in effect endorsed them. Khrushchev has recommended the secretary-general's post be held by three men—one each from the Western, neutralist and Communist nations.

1½-POUND BABY GIRL FIGHTING TO SURVIVE

HAMILTON (CP)—Doctors and nurses at the Mount Hamilton Hospital are fighting to save one of the smallest babies ever to be born here and live.

The little girl, named Camilla by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Inure Almasi, weighed only one pound, eight ounces when she was born Sept. 18. Today, she weighs five ounces less (babies always lose weight after birth), and her condition is described as "fair."

Diefenbaker Salutes Freedom for Nigeria

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today Nigeria can pattern its independent future in the Commonwealth after Canada.

His statement saluting Nigerian independence Saturday was released by his office today, and addressed to the Nigerian people.

"The people of Canada feel a special affinity to Nigerians on this great day of the achievement of independence for, as you know, Canada was the first member of what is now the Commonwealth to demonstrate that both independence and a close association with the Commonwealth can be, and has been, happily maintained," he said.

"Canadians have welcomed the contacts that have already existed between our countries. We feel that Nigerians are our friends and my hope is that the contacts between us will multiply and that your friendship will grow in the years to come."

"It is with confidence in our increasing friendship and understanding, too, that I now, speaking for all Canadians, welcome you into a Commonwealth brotherhood of nations. May prosperity and success be yours always."

NATION-WIDE POLL

Liberals Overtake Tories

VANCOUVER — For the first time since the Tories took over the government in 1957, the Liberal party has stepped ahead of the Conservatives in the popular vote.

According to the Province, the latest standing reported by the nation-wide Gallup Poll gives the Liberals 43 per cent of the vote, compared with 38 per cent for Prime Minister Diefenbaker's Tories. The CCF climbed to 12 per cent from nine while others—including Social Credit—have risen to seven per cent from three.

Conservative support has fallen off badly in Quebec since the defeat of the Union Nationale by the Liberals in June.

While the Liberals appear to have won Quebec back, the Conservatives hold a narrow edge in other parts of Canada, the survey reports.

The Diefenbaker forces are shown at 44 per cent in Ontario, against 42 per cent for the Liberals; 37-34 per cent in the west, compared with 31 per cent for the Liberals; and at 49 per cent in the Maritimes, where the Liberals are given 44 per cent.

Nikita 'Badly Misjudged' Mood of UN Delegates

In detail his conversation with Khrushchev and to co-ordinate Anglo-American strategy for the remainder of the United Nations sessions.

There was no thought of an attempt by Macmillan to bring Eisenhower and Khrushchev together.

The suave, silver-haired British leader did not appear on the surface to have been upset by Thursday's shouting, table-thumping interruptions by Khrushchev during Macmillan's UN address.

But he was grave and emerged without a word after his conference with Khrushchev Thursday night.

A British foreign office spokesman revealed the two men had made no progress on the three major problems they discussed—Berlin, disarmament or the Russian call for dismissal of UN secretary-general Dag Hammarskjöld.

"Each side expressed its views and held to them," the spokesman said.

American UN Ambassador James Wadsworth said earlier this week that unless Khrushchev showed some reasonableness his visit would be useless and the sooner he went home the better.

At the Khrushchev-Macmillan meeting:

—Agreement was reached on one thing. Khrushchev will repay Macmillan's visit early next week. Meantime they will think over their differences.

—The question of President Eisenhower seeing Khrushchev was not discussed.

—Macmillan will stay here longer than he originally intended.

The meeting with Khrushchev was "calm and reasonable." But, under questioning, the spokesman admitted it might be termed grim. He said he would use the word "serious."

The summit meeting, first time the men had met since the breakup of the Paris conference last May, would have had scarcely a worse prelude and it appeared that Khrushchev had deliberately created a bad mood.

The Russian premier broke into Macmillan's UN address Thursday and forced the Briton to stop speaking while he shouted in Russian. He pounded the table in protest at Macmillan's sharp rejection of Russian propaganda in a speech which Western observers thought the most eloquent so far delivered at the General Assembly.

Then, just before Macmillan arrived at the Soviet headquarters residence, Khrushchev came out under an umbrella and compared Macmillan with Neville Chamberlain, the First World War prime minister who has been blamed for appeasing Hitler.

Khrushchev said Macmillan was taking a similar role with German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

The foreign office spokesman was asked whether Macmillan was aware that Khrushchev had characterized him as a "Chamberlain."

"I am not aware that Mr. Macmillan was aware, but in our country the chamberlains are very distinguished people."

Khrushchev came out with Czech President Antonin Novotny after Macmillan's visit but for once—he would say nothing about it.

Earlier he had rattled answers back in shot-gun style to reporters, promising that the meeting with Macmillan would not lead to anything.

'A Humiliation to Our Country'

Asked if he would seek a meeting with Eisenhower to try to patch up differences, Khrushchev said:

"You expect me to ask Eisenhower for a meeting? It would be a humiliation to our country."

In other developments in the UN:

The United States struck back at Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro's charges of American "colonialist policy" in Puerto Rico by furnishing the General Assembly a statement from Luis Munoz Marin, governor of the island. It said in part, "Puerto Rico has freely chosen its present relationship with the U.S. . . on the basis of mutual consent and respect."

Russia forwarded a request from parliamentary deputies in the Congo, asking that UN forces in the Congo help Prime Minister Patrice Lumumba regain authority over the Congolese government. The deputies' message asked for help from Lumumba to free the country from "rebels and usurpers."

Prince Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia addressed the assembly and urged that Cambodia and Laos be declared a neutralized zone, under East-West guarantees.

Zulfikar Ali Bhutto, Pakistani cabinet member, backed Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld against Khrushchev's attacks on him and rejected Khrushchev's proposal to replace Hammarskjöld's office with a three-man committee.

B. P. Koirala, prime minister of Nepal, told the assembly the smaller nations should play a stronger role in the UN to avoid becoming "a football between the two blocs."
